WIFE REFUTES CHARGES MADE BY E. H. GRACE

"I Am Innocent," She Says, "and I Am Sure He Will Exonerate Me."

SHE REFUSES TO TALK ABOUT OTHER WOMAN

Wounded Man Talks Freely of His Case at Home in Newnan, Ga., Declaring His Wife Shot Him and Left Him to Die—Grace's End Approaching.

Closely guarded by a cordon of house detectives and a maid, Mrs. Daisy Grace spent last night in suite 411 at the Kimball. Owing to her fatigued condition, she retired early, leaving orders that she be not awakened until a late hour this morning.

"I am innocent," she said emphatically, in regard to the statement made by Grace on Sunday in Newman. "My husband knows the truth, and I am sure he eventually will tell all and exonerate me completely."

"How about the other woman in the case?" she was asked by a Constitution reporter. To this question she made no answer directly. She denied, however, the sensational interviews supposed to have come from her and appearing in New York papers.

Mrs. Grace is eager for all information regarding her husband's condition. Whenever a favorable report is received her joy is visibly evident. An unfavorable report on his condition causes her to become nervous and irritable.

Prosecution Is Reticent.

Mrs. Grace's return to Atlanta, an event which it was confidently predicted by the prosecution would never take place, elicited but little comment from that side of the famous case last night.

"I didn't know that she had returned," said Reuben R. Arnold, Mr. Grace's counsel, when notified over the telephone.

"I suppose you are glad to hear it?"

"Yes," he replied. "I think she ought to come back and stand her trial."

Other than this Mr. Arnold had nothing to say. It will be remembered that newspaper headlines after Mrs. Grace's departure for Philadelphia quoted Mr. Arnold as saying "she will never come back to Atlanta."

Lamar Hill, associated with Mr. Arnold in the Grace case, was not in the city last night.

Grace Gradually Weakening.

From Newman, Ga., comes the information that after his last visit to the bedside of Eugene Grace Sunday night, Dr. Bailey, now in charge of the wounded man, said that there was no material change in his condition except for the gradual weakening which has marked each day for the past two weeks.

"He may live two weeks," said the physician.

The complete paralysis of the organs continues and this will finally cause his death. No hope is held out for him. The end is approaching surely and certainly.

Grace was very cheerful all day, and many of his old friends visited him. A few were allowed to have a few words with the fine-looking boy whom they had known of old, and he talked as if he were more than happy to see them again.

"My Wife Guilty," Says Grace.

Newnan, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—Eugene H. Grace, who has come home to die, today freely discussed the shooting.

"I woke up about 7 a. m. with an awful pain in my chest, and thought it was acute indigestion. I told my wife to send for a doctor, and she said she

DR. BROUGHTON SAYS GOODBYE

Popular Minister Given Ovation By His Congregation.

Preachers and Laymen Pay Tribute to Service Rendered to Atlanta by Pastor Who Leaves City Today to Accept London Call.

The following telegram was received from Mrs. Sam P. Jones by Dr. Len G. Broughton:

"In your going away Atlanta loses her strongest force for good and against evil. Georgia loses her greatest personality, used for God and His kingdom. The United States loses one of her most prominent citizens, whose voice has always been raised for civic righteousness. But our loss is England's gain, and I join in prayer with thousands that God may give you health and strength to do the great work that he has in store for you. But may he bring you back to us, and with the assurance that my love and prayers shall follow you, I am yours in His service.

(Signed) "MRS. SAM P. JONES.

"Cartersville, Ga., March 23, 1912."

Dr. Broughton has spoken for the last time to the people of Atlanta before sailing for England.

When he stepped to the front of the platform last night at the Baptist Tabernacle the more than three thousand men, women and children who sat or stood in its auditorium were silent for a long minute. The quick applause that had greeted every previous speaker who had stood there to honor him was not immediately forthcoming in this case. Then suddenly, simultaneously they rose, on lower floor, in balcony, in gallery, the men on the platform. There followed a long, rattling roar of applause and sounds as if impulsive voices had been stifled. Handkerchiefs were pulled out and waved aloft. Then the audience sank down in its place, and Dr. Len G. Broughton began to speak to the people whom he has so well loved and who have so loved him.

A Force of Love.

"My people have been a force of love behind me; they have believed in God and trusted me. There are preachers in this country whose names would be household words had they had the splendid backing that I have had. That backing has made possible this service of tonight.

"I believe I am doing the will of God in leaving this city, this state, this country, the place that I love best in the whole world. I have never known such suffering as has been my lot in the past few weeks, and that I endure even tonight. But having given my life wholly to God, I do not doubt now that I am doing right.

"Nor do I leave Atlanta because I think less of the city, nor America because I love it less. I am an American and a southerner.

"I believe that England needs an

MORRIS FAMILY FUND INCREASED BY MANY GIFTS

Previously reported—cash	$449.28
Received cash Sunday	184.00
Other subscriptions	181.75
Total	$815.03

The subscriptions to the fund for the bereaved family of Aaron Morris, who was killed by a negro when he went to the aid of a woman whom the negro had attacked, yesterday climbed above the $800-mark, despite the fact that Saturday was a busy day and many people had no opportunity to contribute, and that Sunday also intervened.

Today will afford an opportunity for many to help the widow and orphans who before have not had the chance, and it is hoped that the fund will go far above $1,000. Contributions may be handed to The Constitution, for which due acknowledgment will be made.

Police Give Their Aid.

The city police, feeling keenly the havoc wrought by the negro's knife, have generously come to the aid of the helpless family. Their complete donation will be published later.

Heading the men who gave to the fund Sunday is ex-Governor John M. Slaton, who personally telephoned Mrs. I. Springer, an ardent worker in this charitable cause, that he wished to give $10 to the Morris family. Mrs. Springer has turned in a large amount which she collected from her friends for Mrs. Morris and the fatherless children who now look to her for support.

In several churches subscriptions have been taken for the Morris family, notably Congregations Ahavath Achim and Shairith Israel, and the Jewish charities are active in their efforts to further the growth of the fund.

The interest, however, is not confined

SCENE OF EXPLOSION IN SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, IN WHICH TWENTY-SIX WORKMEN LOST LIVES

While the official investigation into the explosion in the Southern Pacific roundhouse at San Antonio has not been completed, the general belief is that the tremendous damage was done by the explosion of a locomotive boiler and that dynamite played no part in it. Labor unions identified with the Southern Pacific have offered a reward of $5,000 for the identification of the person or persons responsible for the explosion that killed twenty-six persons and injured forty. Union men say they will prosecute the guilty if evidence can be had even if the prosecution is direct against a union man. The engine that exploded was an oil burning passenger mogul. Its ruins are shown in the lower cut. One of the drivers was blown from the axle and was thrown 20 feet.

ALL STATE LINES ARE DESTROYED FOR RAILROADS

Decision of Far-Reaching Import Rendered By Inter-State Commerce Commission.

AUTHORITY OF NATION DECLARED PARAMOUNT

Roads Must So Adjust Rates That Justice Will Be Done Between Communities Regardless of State Lines. Clements, Harlan and McChord Dissent.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, March 24.—(Special.)—The interstate commerce commission, in an opinion made public today, established the far-reaching principle that a railroad must so adjust its rates that justice will be done between communities, regardless of state lines. If a railroad makes a low rate upon traffic wholly within a state, even when forced to do so by a state commission, it must accord the same rate to interstate traffic moving under substantially similar conditions.

It puts on a radically different basis the relations between state and federal railroad commissions.

Affects State Road Case.

The decision directly affects the Western and Atlantic railroad case, in which the Georgia railroad commission is claiming the right, under the terms of a lease for the state road, to fix the rates from Atlanta to Chattanooga. It would also affect rates from Atlanta to Augusta, Atlanta to West Point, or any other local rate that might be shown to have an effect upon the interstate commerce business of the carrier. A sweeping extension of the power of the interstate commerce commission is here indicated; and notice is served on state commissions that they must take into consideration the interstate business of carriers in passing upon the justness and reasonableness of rates entirely within a state. Formerly it was considered that a state commission's authority was absolute over the fixing of intrastate rates.

Senator Hoke Smith, when asked tonight about the decison, declined to express any view until he could have an opportunity to see and examine the full text of the opinion of Commissioner Lane. He said, however, the opinion was a most interesting and important one, and he wanted to study it carefully.

Strong Dissenting Opinion.

The principle was laid down by a vote of 4 to 3. The minority held that the powers of congress were usurped by the majority opinion, and that the remedy for such a situation should be applied through additional legislation.

The decision was in the case of the railroad commission of Louisiana against the St. Louis and Southwestern railway and other carriers operating between Louisiana and Texas.

The case practically precipitated a conflict between federal and state authority over the control of interstate traffic. The opinion of the majority of the interstate commerce commission, prepared and handed down by Commissioner Lane, is a definite assertion of the supremacy of national regulatory authority over the powers exercised by any state. It is the first time this assertion has been made distinctly by the commission. In making it, Chairman Prouty and Commissioners Clark and Meyer concurred with Commissioner Lane and Commis-

HE PUTS BULLET IN WOMAN'S NECK

Macon, Ga., March 24.—Lep Meyer, a vaudeville actor, tonight shot and fatally wounded Mary Moore, the proprietress of a disorderly house in the tenderloin, about 10 o'clock. The Moore woman, it seems, owed Meyer's sister a millinery bill, and claim having been pressed, the woman called up Miss Meyer over the telephone this afternoon, and, it is asserted, insulted her. Meyer took his brother with him, went to the house, closeted himself with the woman and shot her. He then called the police and gave himself up. He stated in the barracks that he did not shoot until the Moore woman pulled a revolver out of a bureau drawer. Doctors at the City hospital state the woman cannot recover. She was shot through the neck.

PERSONS WHO WISH TO MARRY MUST HAVE HEALTH CERTIFICATES

Chicago, March 24.—Dean Walter T. Sumner, of the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul, today delivered a sermon upon the "Sacrament of Marriage," during which he made the following announcement

"After consultation with the Right Rev. C. P. Andrews, bishop of Chicago, and with his approval, Dean Sumner and his co-workers of the Cathedral Saints Peter and Paul, have agreed upon an advanced policy with regard to the administration of marriage in the cathedral.

"Beginning with Easter no persons will be married at the cathedral unless they present a certificate of health from a reputable physician to the effect that they are normal, physically and mentally, and have neither an incurable or communicable disease.

"This step is taken only after months of study of the situation and deliberation as to its advisability. It is believed that this stand will meet with the immediate sympathy of the clergy in the church at large, all of whom have long felt the undesirability of being party to the marriage of persons who, because of their physical condition, should never be allowed to enter into the marriage state."

UNDERWOOD GOES TO ANNAPOLIS

The Democratic Leader Will Be Guest of Members of the Legislature.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, March 24.—(Special.)—Oscar W. Underwood will go to Annapolis tomorrow afternoon, accompanied by a large party of congressional friends, to meet the members of the Maryland legislature, and attend a dinner at Carval hotel given in his honor. He will not make a political address. If he speaks at all, it will be to say a few words of thanks to his hosts at dinner.

"If I agreed to leave my work and devote the time to the preparation and delivery of one campaign address, I would be a candidate for bankruptcy," said Mr. Underwood in declining the invitation of the Maryland committee. He said he appreciated the courtesy of the invitation, and, but for the rule he had made, would be glad to talk to the legislature on the issues of the day. No act of Mr. Underwood has won more widespread approval than his determination to stay on the job.

The house will hold no session tomorrow, but will meet at noon and adjourn immediately, out of respect to the memory of General Henry H. Bingham, late a representative from Pennsylvania.

Special cars will leave Washington for Annapolis at 3 o'clock, conveying the members of the Underwood party. They will return to Washington late that night or the following morning.

No statements have been issued by the Underwood headquarters in about a week, but the work of sending out campaign material goes merrily ahead.

GO ARMED!

Go armed with a pair of shears and clip the ten-vote coupon from each issue of the paper and help some woman win one of the thirteen automobiles that The Constitution will award to ambitious candidates.

If the name of your favorite does not appear in Tuesday's issue, fill out the nomination blank that appears daily, send to the Campaign Department and she will be supplied with receipt blanks and other information that will prepare her to make a winning campaign.

THREE OUTLAWS HARD PRESSED

But Claude Swanson Allen Has Eluded His Pursuers.

Galax, Va., March 24.—Claude Swanson Allen, the 22-year-old son of Floyd Allen, and one of those indicted for the Hillsville courthouse murders, has cleanly eluded all pursuers, but his uncle, Sidna Allen, and cousins, Wesley Edwards and Field Allen, are so closely pressed on the south side of the Blue Ridge that they probably will be captured within three days.

This information came today from leaders of the hunt for the gang who on March 14 swooped down on the Carroll county court, killed Judge Massie, Prosecutor Foster, Sheriff Webb, Juror Fowler and Miss Nancy Ayres, and wounded two bystanders.

Claude Allen, who once attended a military school at Raleigh, N. C., and knows more of the outside world than the average mountaineer, it was learned today, took a pocket full of gold from the family cash drawer on the night of the tragedy, put on his best clothing and vanished on horseback beyond the North Carolina line. Hope of finding him in the mountains has now been abandoned.

Three Outlaws Dodging.

Not so, however, with the three other outlaws who are dodging about the crevices of the Blue Ridge between here and Mount Airy, N. C. They have been seen at a distance and it is said detectives have been within thirty minutes of them.

"I hope they will all give themselves up, they had better do it, for they have no chance at all," was the frank comment of Sidna Edward, likewise indicted for murder, who was taken today for safekeeping to the Roanoke jail, where he joined his uncle, Floyd Allen; his cousin, Victor Allen, and his chum, Byrd Marion, all indicted for complicity in the courthouse shooting.

Edwards swung his tall, robust figure into the train at Galax about noon. With him was Sergeant White of the state militia. He arrived in Roanoke tonight seemingly as care-free as a school boy on a lark. People from fifty miles around the country-side gathered at the railroad stations to catch a glimpse of the prisoner. They had no difficulty, for Edwards projected his broad shoulders through

"UNLOADED" GUN DEADLY AS USUAL

12-Year-Old Boy Kills 9-Year-Old Comrade With Supposedly Empty Rifle.

New York, March 24.—"Didn't know it was loaded" was the explanation which the police say 12-year-old Julius Maitland gave today for shooting and killing Henry Lockhardt, 9 years old, yesterday during a "battle" in a vacant lot in the Bronx. The Maitland boy was arrested early this morning on a technical charge of juvenile delinquency.

The boy, according to the story the police say he told, had gone out on a "hike," dressed in his boy scout uniform, and had borrowed the rifle with which he did the shooting. He encountered the Lockhart boy and several companions in a vacant lot, he is alleged to have said, and a "battle" ensued in which Lockhardt threw stones at him and drew a toy pistol. Young Maitland, according to his alleged confession, pointed his rifle and fired. The gun, to his surprise, went off.

The lad appeared not to know, the police say, that the shot had been fatal, and believes tonight that the bullet took effect in Lockhardt's hand. Maitland will be arraigned before the coroner's jury tomorrow. His parents are prostrated.

BRYAN ASKED TO PROVE ANTI-HARMON CHARGES

Columbus, Ohio, March 24.—Prior to his departure for Nebraska tonight, E. H. Moore, chairman of the Ohio Harmon campaign committee, gave out an open letter to William Jennings Bryan, in which he calls upon the latter for proof of "insinuations that Governor Harmon is the candidate of Wall street interests" and also asks Mr. Bryan to explain "the fact that Governor Woodrow Wilson, whom you are supporting, is wallowing in a campaign fund, the size of which, according to Editor Henry Watterson, has not been seen since the days of Senator Hanna."

Mr. Moore expects to spend several days this week in Nebraska in the interest of Governor Harmon. Another political development today was the announcement that the so-called progressive democrat faction led by former Congressman John J. Lentz, will hold a conference with leaders tomorrow, at which it is proposed to take steps to center upon the candidacy of some one other than Governor Harmon.

Brother of D. B. Hill Dead.

Dexter, Mo., March 24.—Dr. A. P. Hill, brother of the late Senator David B. Hill, of New York, died here today at the age of 75 years. Dr. Hill joined the confederate army as an assistant surgeon in 1861, serving throughout the war.

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN FOR ROOSEVELT

The Colonel Will Be Busy on the Stump This Week.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 24.—Well pleased with the results of his trip to Portland, Maine, Colonel Roosevelt returned to Oyster Bay this evening for a few hours' rest before plunging again into his campaign. He said he would see no one tonight and would go early in the morning to New York, where he will confer with a number of politicians. In the evening he is to make five campaign speeches in Manhattan and the Bronx.

Colonel Roosevelt reached Boston from Portland early today and took breakfast at the home of Arthur Hill, where he talked with leaders of the Massachusetts campaign. At 10 o'clock he left for New York. Medill McCormick, of Chicago, manager of the Washington Roosevelt bureau, accompanied him. Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver, met Colonel Roosevelt at New London, Conn., returning to New York with him.

Judge Lindsey talked over with the colonel the situation in several western states.

Roosevelt May Go to Nebraska.

The colonel was asked whether he would make speeches in Nebraska and other states which are not on the schedule for the trip through the central west this week. He replied that he had reached no decision on this point.

Mr. McCormick gave out a statement in which he said a Roosevelt movement to embrace the entire state of Maine had been formed while Colonel Roosevelt was in Portland.

"It should be noted," the statement read, "that over half of the delegates already selected are instructed for Roosevelt, while the remaining delegates are uninstructed. Saturday night the Taft leaders privately conceded the state to Roosevelt. During the several days that I have been in New England I have conferred with the Roosevelt leaders from New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Maine. These men have carefully canvassed the three states. They are unanimous in reporting that the rank and file of republicans are from two to one to six to one in favor of Colonel Roosevelt's nomination."

WILLIAM CAPE, 102 YEARS OLD, VETERAN OF TWO WARS, IS DEAD

More than a century of life was experienced by William Cape, veteran of the Seminole Indian and Civil wars, who died yesterday morning at 6:30 o'clock at the home of his niece, Mrs. J. H. Mitchell, at Boulevard and Rock Springs road.

He is survived by 17 of the 23 children whom he raised to maturity, more than half a hundred grand-children, a number of great-grand-children, and two of the fourth generation, besides several nieces and nephews.

Falls While Seeking Niece.

The veteran's death came as the result of an accident sustained on Decatur street six weeks ago, when he slipped and fell in front of the police station, fracturing his hip. He was taken to the Grady hospital and received attention until he could be moved to the home of his relative.

At the time of his injury, Mr. Cape was in search for the niece at whose home he died. He had been living in Stockbridge, doing his daily work, and during the cotton season picking his 100 pounds daily with the best of them. When the weather forced a lull in his activities he came to Atlanta on a visit.

He did not know the address of his niece. He remembered Atlanta as a small town, and the railroad which now passes through a maze of warehouses and tall buildings then had on either side a tall cane break. Atlanta, indeed, was changed, and the search for his niece was fruitless, ending finally in his injury.

While he lay sick in the hospital, a story of his accident in The Constitution attracted the attention of his niece, and it was then she claimed him. Until he died he received the tender treatment which was his due.

Interesting Character.

Mr. Cape was one of the most interesting figures who ever entered the walls of the Grady hospital. Born in 1810, he saw every war in which this country has engaged, except the one which gave her independence, and of those wars he took part in two. He was a lad of 15, when he ran off to Florida to fight the Indians, and he could tell with remarkable clearness some vivid tales of his adventures.

During the Civil war, he fought in the battle of Atlanta, all around Chattanooga, and was here when the war ended. In no engagement did he receive any wound, and as he pathetically remarked as he lay on a hospital cot, the first time in many years that he had been sick. "This is the worst injury I ever received."

The body was removed to Poole's chapel last night, until the funeral and interment Monday morning at 10 o'clock, at the Rock Springs church.

Gravamen of Complaint.

The proceeding brought by the Louisiana commission placed in issue the right of interstate carriers to discriminate in favor of state traffic and against interstate traffic.

"The gravamen of the complaint," the opinion says, "is that the defendant carriers make rates out of Dallas and other Texas points into eastern Texas, which are much lower than those which they extend into Texas from Shreveport, La. A rate of 60 cents carries first-class traffic from the eastward of Dallas a distance of 160 miles, while the same rate of 60 cents will carry the same class of traffic only fifty-five miles into Texas from Shreveport."

The low rates within the state of Texas was forced upon the railroads by the Texas railroad commission in furtherance of a policy to protect and promote the jobbing interests of Texas. The Louisiana commission and that state's commercia linterests, declared that Louisiana was being discriminated against ebcause of the exaction of the higher rates from Shreveport westward and demanded an adjustment of the rates. The contentions of Louisiana were sustained by the commission absolutely.

What the Majority Held.

The majority held:

That the present class rates from reveport to Texas points were unsonable, and prescribed lower rates, ich must be put into effect by y 1.

hat the present relation of rates, tbound and westbound, from reveport gives an undue preference Dallas, Houston and other as cities, and the carriers are ord to establish the same rates on westbound as on eastbound traffic.

That if a state, by the exercise of its lawful power, establishes rates which the interstate carrier makes effective upon state traffic, that carrier does so with the full knowledge that the federal government requires it to apply such rates under like conditions upon interstate traffic. To say that an interstate carrier may discriminate against interstate commerce because of the order of a state commission would be to admit that a state may limit and prescribe the flow of commerce between the states.

Federal Authority Paramount.

The conclusion of the majority opinion is a vigorous assertion of the paramount authority of the national government over all interstate traffic. The opinion says:

"An interstate carrier must respect the federal law, and if it is also subjected to state law, it must respect that in so far as it can without doing violence to its obligations under the national authority. Before us are carriers which undeniably discriminate directly against interstate traffic. To this charge they plead that all they have done was to obey the orders of the state commission, as against which they were helpless. They appealed to no court for relief, nor to this commission. When the state of Louisiana, after years of endurance, makes complaint to this body, these carriers make no showing of the reasonableness of their rates other than that heretofore dealt with—a traffic adjustment equalizing gateways—and even in this defense all carriers do not join. The class rates of the Texas commission within the distances here involved are not too low. This the carriers themselves do not urge. Yet they have maintained higher rates from Shreveport, the interstate point. While the Texas commission has evidenced a policy of home protection for its own state cities, there is every evidence that the carriers moving into and within Texas accepted this policy as their own, claiming that not to have adopted it would have led to reprisal on the part of the state authorities. Such conditions may not continue under this act.

"The interstate carrier which adopts a policy, even under state direction, that makes against the interstate movement of commerce, must do so with its eyes open and fully conscious of its responsibilities to the federal law, which guards commerce 'among the states' against discrimination."

Judge Clements Dissents.

Commissioner Clements, in his dissenting opinion, maintains that the commission has transcended its authority. He urges that the situation which developed between Louisiana and Texas "can only be reached by additional legislation," and that the commission, in its decision, has usurped the powers of the congress.

Commissioner Harlan dissented from the majority opinion on substantially the same grounds, as he holds that the majority opinion is "insecure," because it flows from a process of reasoning that is a mere construction, rather than an administration, of the law.

Commissioner McChord dissents radically from the majority, maintaining directly that in view of the approaching determination of the Minnesota, Kentucky and other state rate cases by the United States supreme court the commission ought not to assert such principles as are embodied in the present case. He declares that the conclusions reached are "both erroneous and unnecessary." He concludes, after an elaborate discussion of the case: "My position is that this commission should confine itself within the four corners of the law of its creation, usurping neither the legislative function of the congress nor the judicial power of the courts."

OBITUARY BY MRS. CORRA HARRIS HAS GREATLY STIRRED NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., March 24.—Nashville has been much stirred by an obituary written by Mrs. Corra Harris, the novelist, in honor of an elderly lady who was her friend. The obituary appeared in a Nashville paper and the paragraph which attracted so much attention follows:

"She was a gentlewoman who will find herself very much at home in heaven. She had a spirit which elevated mere manners into realities of love and kindness, and she had that rarest gift in a Christian, the power to make piety an enchantment for those about her. She was a mother who never weaned her children, but nurtured them to the last with courage and peace. She had a vocation for making a home that was a haven and she had a genius for hospitality, especially to strangers, so grave in its simplicity, so warm even in its silence, that such an one was forced to feel her expectations of the 'angel unawares.' Few women ever gave more that was good and asked or expected less of the world. She found in herself, her charity and her faith all contentment. She made a laurel wreath of her years and never suspected her distinction."

EXCITED CROWD MEETS MRS. GRACE AT STATION

Two thousand people, idlers who pass every Sunday on the streets, young women who are anywhere that there is a promise of excitement, and well-dressed women well in the prime of life, gathered at the Terminal station yesterday afternoon by 4 o'clock and commenced a hum of conversation that was broken only to look expectantly toward the bulletin board every few minutes.

At that hour, No. 37, the Southern's through train from New York, was marked up on time and the crowd had only sixty minutes before them until their curiosity to see the woman who has been most in the public eye of Atlanta during the past three weeks could be satisfied.

Then the Minutes Drag.

Four fifteen the bulletin was changed to thirty minutes late, and there was a rush toward the marker as he took up his chalk and commenced to write in that wonderfully deliberate way which is a characteristic of officials when a crowd's curiosity is battling with its impatience.

"Oh, dear! it will be half-past five before she gets here," murmured one woman to the man with her, but they made no move to go. "Just look at all these people," she continued. "That's one reason I never like to come to a thing like this, there is always such a crowd."

Four thirty, and the bulletin was again pushed up half an hour, while the crowd went through the same scramble to read the notice and gave vent to the same expressions of disappointment.

But the crowd still increased. The waiting room was packed, and those who were there to board a train had difficulty in passing through to the ticket windows with their baggage. At the gates were many others, leaning on the parapet, looking down on the trains below.

Only a Few Left.

At 6 o'clock the vestibule was not expected until 6:45 o'clock, long after dark, and a few persons left the station. There absence was not noticed.

About the time the train was due some person in the dense crowd about the gates set up a cry, "There she goes!" Fully 500 people turned pell-mell, like the proverbial flock of sheep, which follows the ringing of any bell, and headed by two flash-light men stampeded into the main waiting room out to the Mitchell street side only to find no trace of the woman so eagerly sought.

A few minutes later there was the muffled roar of No. 37 as it entered the shed, its blazing headlight flickered through the crowd on the balcony overhead and there was another rush forward. Then began the real craning of necks, the real humor of the crowd to catch sight of a woman charged with attempting to shoot her husband, whom none in the crowd knew and in whom none was interested except from a morbid curiosity.

"There she comes; that's her," was the cry as every woman appeared on the stairs. Every alarm was false.

Report of a Flash-Light.

Suddenly there was the report of a flash-light, and it seemed as if its force lifted everybody up, upward, straining to peer above the heads of those in front.

"That's her, that must be her, hear that report!"

Another second and a flash of white darted across the tracks below toward the express and freight outlet. It was the hunted woman, as she and her attorney raced to escape observation.

"Yonder she goes," shouted a tall man, who could see above the parapet. Women stampeded, girls screamed hysterically, as they fought to reach the edge of the balcony, strong men pushed aside all in front of them and laughed boisterously as the woman fled across the tracks.

One woman, who left two small children in the rush of people, climbed the turnstile which barred her way to the steps, and hung to a precarious perch as her face lighted with the anxiety and eagerness which had brought her out into the rain to catch sight of a woman whom she did not know, and whose only claim on public attention was an accusation of attempted murder standing against her.

Crowd Stampedes Again.

As soon as the crowd knew that the object of their curiosity had escaped to the street by going under the station and up the express and baggage alley, there was another stampede.

Over slippery asphalt in the drizzling rain, to the treacherous badly-paved incline of Madison avenue, where the mud and slush lay thick from the wheels of many drays, neatly dressed women, girls in the latest fashions, and idlers, sprinted to where the alley merges with the avenue. And as they ran they yelled.

"Whoo-ee, there goes Mrs. Grace," was the cry.

As they reached the incline a taxicab darted up out of the darkness and whizzed past. Another followed, then an automobile, then a taxicab. Off into the night, speed laws of no consequence, they raced and left behind them the throng who had waited tirelessly for hours—and then been cheated.

They left also a topic of conversation, the one topic for days, a subject for debate as to whether or not she is really guilty, and other momentous questions which so vitally affect the wage earners and home makers of a great city.

Mrs. Grace had gotten back to her husband's home. Met by no loving hands, only by morbid curiosity and notoriety, she reached Atlanta to await the outcome of the trial which may place her life in jeopardy, and what were her thoughts she only knows.

WIFE REFUTES CHARGES MADE

would. I must have dropped into unconsciousness again.

"I was awakened by the maid, who came in to make a fire; she asked me if I was sick. My wife replied: 'No, he is just sleepy.' I told the maid: 'No, that wasn't what was the matter.' I was in a daze. Again I begged my wife for some water, and to go for the doctor. She said she would, and pretended to be dressing. I was suffering terribly now. I must have become unconscious again. Later I woke and begged my wife to get a doctor.

She Called For a Cab.

"She replied that she would go after the doctor herself, and called over the phone for a cab. The cab came, my wife dressed and went out, locking the door behind her. I asked her not to lock the door, but she did so anyway. I heard the door of the cab slam, and the cab drove off.

"It was then that I noticed that I was wet about the chest, so I ran my hand down and felt the blood; all this time I had thought it was acute indigestion. Now, I knew I had been shot. It dawned on me that my wife shot me. I could understand why she hadn't brought a doctor. She had been gone sometime, probably an hour or two, so I tried for the phone. I reached it after some difficulty, and when I did I found something in the mouthpiece. I pulled it out. The receiver was off the hook when I reached the phone, I may have knocked it off when reaching for it, but I don't think so. I moved the little hook up a time or two, and had no trouble in getting central, then I called for the police. There is no doubt in the world but that my wife shot me, and if there is any justice in the world, she will get her just deserts. In the name of God, why should I say my wife did it unless she did. Some of the papers have said things about me that are untrue, they have printed malicious statements that are entirely false, and in the name of justice I want you to correct these.

"I don't want to go out of the world with such a stain on my name, and leave my family with this stain to live down. Ask people who live here, ask those who have known me, they can tell you what I am, and who I am. As long as I am conscious I expect to hold my nerve, and when the end comes, Eugene Grace will face his maker with a clear conscience."

Time to Wake Up.

(From Leslie's.)

Drowsy We must wake up if we are to enjoy the benefits of the Panama canal. Secretary Nagel's warning to the American business men is timely. He says that Germany is always laboring to spread her commerce. Her commissioners are studying trade conditions in every country in the world. The German board of trade is always in close touch with the government. The same is true in France and England. Our department of commerce, of which Secretary Nagel is the wide-awake and efficient head, has a few scattered agents studying trade conditions abroad. Hundreds should be at work reporting to our business men and organizations. Yet, with this earnest call ringing in our ears, our democratic friends in congress are proposing to choke to death the tariff commission, the only one we have to make a scientific investigation of the tariff question. We commend the independence of our esteemed democratic contemporary, The New York World, in making a patriotic appeal for the maintenance of the tariff commission. The tariff question has no business with politics.

ATTACK IS MADE ON AMERICANS

One Is Killed and Two Are Wounded in China.

Hicks, Hoffman and Sheldon Supposed to Be Missionaries. Attack Was Made by Chinese Pirates--American Consul General Investigating.

Ichang, Province of Hu Peh, China, March 24.—A telegram received here from Wu Shan, Province of Sze Chwan, says that three Americans, Messrs. Hicks, Hoffman and Sheldon, who are presumed to be missionaries, were attacked while exploring the gorges in the Yangtse river in a boat, and all three were robbed and wounded.

Soldiers and a doctor have been dispatched from this city to Wu Shan, which is about seventy-five miles to the west, on the Yangtse.

One American Killed.

Pekin, March 24.—The American legation here received a telegram today from E. Carlton Baker, consul at Chung King, saying that the Americans attacked at Wu Shan are teachers. The consul says Mr. Hicks, whose home was Oshkosh, Wis., was killed, and that his companions, though wounded, are taking his body to Ichang. The consul adds that the attack was made by pirates and was not due to anti-foreign hatred. Chinese gendarmes are pursuing the pirates.

The American legation here today telegraphed Roger S. Greene, consul general at Hankow, to send Vice Consul General J. Paul Jameson to Ichang to obtain further information concerning the attack upon the Americans.

The Kan Su army arrived at Sian Fu, Province of Shen Si, on March 22, and the Chinese soldiers, fearing the Mohammedan troops would loot the city, began looting themselves. The Mohammedans retired. All foreigners are reported safe.

The representative of the Belgian financial syndicate will pay 3,000,000 taels ($2,000,000) to the government tomorrow unless the powers interfere.

Consular reports received here say there has been considerable disorder at Chee Foo. A dispatch from Tsinan, Province of Shan Tung, reports the looting by soldiers of all but two native banks at Tsing Chow Fu. Foreign property was not molested.

Candidates in Terrell.

Dawson, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—As yet there have been only two announcements, to-wit: J. G. Fussell, who seeks re-election as tax collector, and M. G. Hill, who is again a candidate for sheriff. It is understood that all of the present incumbents will stand for re-election at the approaching primary, and thus far there is no announced opposition to any of them. In the mass meeting Saturday morning, Hon. B. F. Melton, present member of the general assembly, from this county, stated that he would offer for re-election and would make his formal announcement at an early date.

Whisky as Hack Hire.

Athens, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—Because a young man named J. P. Peterson is alleged to have paid his hack fare across town with a pint of corn whisky instead of the regulation coin of the realm, he is being held under a charge from the police court for violating the prohibition law. His trial will be Tuesday morning. The city ordinance is prohibitive of "keeping for the purpose of illegal sale spirituous liquors."

Saves Baby's Life.

Athens, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—William Lane, a young negro boy, saved the life of Leslie, the 3-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Aaron, in East Athens, yesterday by rushing into the house and smothering out the flames which had caught the flimsy garments of the child and were rapidly enveloping it. The mother was in the back yard and did not know that her little babe had been in danger till she found the colored boy tearing off the charred clothing and tenderly ministering to the child.

Farming Situation Alarming.

Lyerly, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—Farm work was again thrown behind today, when a steady downpour of rain fell all the forenoon. The ground is thoroughly wet now, and it will be the first of April at the best before farm work can commence again. The backward state of farming is now becoming really alarming, and should the rains continue a few weeks longer it will be impossible to get in one-third of a crop. The ground was in fine shape to plow Thursday and Friday and all the farmers were putting in good time.

Brantley Goes Back.

Planting in Thomas.

Thomasville, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—Rarely have the farmers of Thomas county put in as much work as they have done in the past week, and not only has a great deal of land been broken up but much planting has been done. The crops put in have been chiefly sugar cane, corn, peanuts and velvet beans.

The growing of velvet beans for stock feed has become a great crop in this section and it is a very valuable one. One farmer said yesterday that he had failed to save seed enough of the beans for planting this year and had been obliged to pay $4.50 a bushel for them. He did not hesitate about buying them, though, as he felt that even at that price he was obliged to have them.

Preparing for Bankers.

Americus, Ga., March 24.—(Special.) The Americus bankers are perfecting a program of rare entertainment for the visiting Georgia bankers who, as members of Group Four of the State Bankers Association will meet in annual convention here on April 12. Two hundred visitors are expected.

MANIA TO MURDER CAUSED BY DRINK

Moore Tried to Kill Wife and Family, Shot Two Officers and Killed Himself.

Harrodsburg, Ky., March 24.—Insane from drink, Edward Moore attempted to murder his wife and family, seriously wounded two officers who went to the rescue, and then committed suicide on the back porch of his home here early this morning.

According to the story told by his wife, Moore became violent about daybreak, destroyed clothing and furniture and aimed a gun at a man he saw through a window. His 14-year-old step-son, Frank Votaw, deflected the barrel, which so enraged Moore that he attacked members of the family. The boy heroically centered the madman's attention on himself by hurling a chair at Moore. The two ran out the door and neighbors summoned the police.

The appearance of Chief of Police K. C. Smith and Workhouse Keeper William Davenport brought about a battle between the officers and Moore, who retreated behind the swinging kitchen door. As the door swung to and fro the man fired and Smiths right arm was shattered while Davenport received a bullet just over the heart.

The officers retreated across the street, but when they returned to the attack they found Moore dying from a self-inflicted wound. On a table in the kitchen were three revolvers, a rifle, a shot-gun, a bowieknife and 2,500 cartridges.

DR. WHITE TELLS WHY EVILS EXIST

Fault Is Largely With People Who Patronize Them

His Sermon Last Night a Sequel to One a Week Ago. Speaks of Theaters, Saloons and "White Slave" Traffic as They All Exist in This City.

"The Gates of Hell in Atlanta. Why are they?"

Such was the startling subject of the evening sermon by Dr. John E. White at the Second Baptist church last night. It was the second of a series of sermons on local conditions.

Doctor White announced two texts. One of them was Mathew xv, 19: "Out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulterers, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies." His other text was from First Timothy, vi, 10: "The love of money is the root of all evil."

Dr. White's Sermon.

Dr. White said in part:

"Last Sunday I ventured to call attention to the gates of hell in Atlanta with definite reference to evils that affect the character and moral safety of its life. I pointed out the presence and power among us of the sensuous theater, the triple-faced saloon, and emboldened prostitution.

"The points were well taken, the facts undisputed. At the very hour and in the very moments of the sermon the police were pulling down one of the hell gates not far from the church. The next morning Judge Broyles in his court publicly indorsed the accuracy of the phrase 'The Gates of Hell in Atlanta,' as describing the facts. There are those who do not think we preachers should use such an expression. It sounds to their delicate ears very much like 'cussing' and lacks the refinement which belongs to the pulpit.

"I haven't time to discuss that question with them. It is not important or interesting, besides it is not genuinely raised or thoughtfully debated. It is a question for superficial pink tea ethics, or for a cover to hide a bad moral bias or for the retreat of moral standpatism which believes in letting bad enough alone.

"There are gates of hell in Atlanta and everybody knows it.

"There they are in fair view, the sensuous theater, the triple-faced saloon and the traffic in womanhood.

"Why are they? What supports them?

"Institutionalized evil is no accident and there is no mystery about it. It exists as the evidence of s nething else which explains its existence, feeds it, and rallies power for it.

"In the scriptures I have read we have a line on the gates of hell, we get a glimpse of the forces behind them.

"First the human disposition for evil, and second the traffic of marketing this disposition for profit. Let us see how true this is in Atlanta. Take the sensuous theater. The man who writes the play, the actors who perform it and the owner of the theater plead not guilty to the charge that they are prurient minded people. The man who runs the cheap vaudeville and the pale, painted women who perform for him disclaim any salacious pleasure on their part. Who then supports the obvious and debasing evil? It is supported thrivingly by somebody. Do not accept my opinion about this. I am not the best witness. Take the witness of your common sense. Manifestly the people morally responsible for the persistent sensuousness and putridity in theatrical performances are the people who constitute the regular patronage of the theaters. The theater-going public is responsible.

Theater-Goers Responsible.

"The majority of this public wants the salacious thrill, having a craving in that direction in their very hearts, or they are morally blase and calloused to the point of apathetic indifference to immoral suggestions. Of course, there are always people who talk about the disgusting shame of such things as they leave the theater, but the depth of their resentment is in question if the box office never finds it out.

"Actors and actresses would not insult their public wantonly by speaking words or making gestures that insulted their audiences. They act what the playwright puts in their hands, and he puts in their hands what the managers believe the people want.

"I quote a statement from A. L. Erlanger, one of the great managers: 'Indecent plays will be presented in theaters as long as there is a public to patronize them, and if the people of this city (New York) do not want to have the stage of New York fall lower than that of Paris, vigorous action should be taken at once.'

"In an address made two years ago in Atlanta on this subject, Mr. Wilton Lackaye, who was playing at that time in one of our theaters, summed up the matter thus:

"'The stage is the mirror of the times, and its character is in the hands of the women. Without their support, an immoral or objectionable play cannot live. If such a play does live, it is because the women want it.

"'I watched an audience file out of a theater in Washington city one afternoon. There was being presented a play so rotten that those who put it on were afterwards taken in charge by the police; but three-fourths of that smiling audience was composed of women, two-thirds of whom were under twenty years of age.

"'Why is it that men turn out the objectionable plays? They write such plays because the theater which is presenting a good wholesome play, calculated to uplift the audience, is all but empty; the one across the street, presenting something objectionable in character, is turning away hundreds.'

Study Vaudeville Crowd.

"Stand any afternoon in front of one of the vaudeville picture show combinations and watch the crowd. Young girls with escorts are pouring in and pouring out hour after hour to see a disgusting exhibition of immodest women. The saddening feature of it is the unblushing public acknowledgment of a prurient taste. Every young man who escorts a girl into such a show or sees her there, mentally comments on the discovery of this fact about her. He may be mistaken, but he does not think so.

"The man who runs the place has no particular desire to assist in the ruin of that girl or in the dishonor and debasement of any of his patrons, but he has discovered a trait in their character, a disposition in their temperament, that creates a market for a certain sort of show, and he is on the lookout for a money-making device. He needs the money. Here is a profitable field. He traffics in the youthful pair to that extent, makes money out of their souls to that extent, and, at least by the father and mother of the boy and girl in the case, must be regarded as an enemy of their home.

The Triple-Faced Atlanta Saloons

"Why are they? The same combination of forces support them; the desire for intoxicating drink and readiness to make money out of the human weakness.

"In the face of all that has been done to stigmatize the saloon business, despite the popular disqualification of saloonists for social equality, and notwithstanding the odium the business involves to their families, the love of money is still a mightier influence with many men than social honor, respectability and public morality.

"But do not imagine that the beer saloon is without comfort. It has its society, its own elect who, in a large measure, compensate the saloon man for the sacrifice of his larger respectability, however little it may relieve his family.

Deal Fairly With Her.

"Let us deal fairly with this man. He is doing what thousands want him to do. He stands upon his well-defined strata of individual and social depravity. His public is a sure thing. Oftentimes he is personally superior to the crowd that lines up alongside his bar counter. Oftentimes he despises the swill herd. Their mouthing and obscene vaporings often disgust him. But his love of money matches their love of drink. The two things fit into each other as a glove fits the hand. From the distillers, brewers, down to the blind tiger, money buys out the human heart of the man in the traffic of drink. The dollar is above the man, above the woman, above the child, to him.

"Likewise with the multiplicity of cheap saloon social clubs in Atlanta. There are about twenty-seven of them. They affect respectability above the beer saloon. Their claim to this distinction is based upon their privacy. In morals the distinction does not exist. By the weight of moral fact these organizations are on a lower level than the beer saloon. They sell whisky; the beer saloons do not. They permit beastly intoxication, and take care of it; the beer saloons are open and under the eye of the police.

"The more exclusive genuine clubs which have the saloon appendix are not primarily drinking places. They could and would exist successfully without the saloon feature. They are social hotels; their members are their guests, to eat, drink, and even sleep, I am informed, and I believe it to be true that less than half their membership carry drinking acounts with these clubs.

"Yet there is no avoiding the fact that these clubs are in the saloon business. One of them makes a clean profit of $20,000 from its saloon operations. To do this as a corporation they have to violate the law of the state. They are doing that very deliberately, and it is bad patriotism to do it; and what is more, I do not believe a dozen citizens in these, our best clubs would personally espouse or defend the principle of legal evasion involved in the conduct of club corporations if applied anywhere else or to anybody else. The difficulty—mainly insuperable—about cutting out the saloon business is that the clubs make money out of their saloon feature. The sale of liquor is strangely profitable, even among gentlemen who sell it to themselves.

The Traffic of Womanhood.

"Why is it? There are none to defend it, but it has friends, strong friends, true and tried friends. Whoever has undertaken to disturb the social evil in this city discovers that at once. Powerful influences meet him at every turn. I can speak out of experience here. The organized prostitution of Atlanta is not the hopeless, timorous outcast that some people suppose. Its friends is I know them are mainly under cover and they make themselves felt all the more effectively because they are.

"First, there is a diffused sort of public opinion created and fostered by men who patronize the evil resorts. There are forty such resorts known definitely and permitted by the police, and in these resorts are known to be between 150 and 175 women. To divide the pound of flesh between the parties financially interested requires a monthly income of more than $15,000. It is manifest therefore that the number of men supporting them are to be estimated in the thousands. From them radiates the influence of a dead pull against whatever would disturb the resorts in their police protected business. The business organization of every such resort is a compact force of desperate resistance. Every one of them is on somebody's part a commercial enterprise. The report of sixty citizens appointed by the mayor of Chicago to investigate the business brought out the fact that vice is one of the great vested interests of that city. The annual balance sheet of the houses show annual income from prostitution of sixteen million dollars. No account is taken in this report of clandestine vice.

"To what extent Atlanta is in the grip of vice as a vested interest remains to be shown by a similar report, but no one need be surprised since Chicago is only twenty times larger than Atlanta, if it is shown that the income from the organized business of prostitution here is around the $150,000 mark.

"The business influences which in varying degree of activity mount guard over these gates of hell range from merchants, grocerymen, hackmen and banks, which are the favored recipients of the bulk of their trade, to the madames who are obviously involved financially and their partners in the traffic. In the midst of all stands the abandoned woman, plucked and devoured, and least of all considered in the division of the spoil.

"Against her not one word has ever fallen or shall ever fall from my lips. In her cause I would challenge those who pray upon her. What is truth in the basest final fact about her case is the saddest and cruelest thing in the world. Sir Galahad fought the battle of no womankind as piteous and desperately just as hers."

DELEGATION LEAVES ATLANTA TO FIGHT COMPENSATION ACT

In order to fight the compensation act, which comes up for hearing before a committee of congress on Tuesday morning at 10 oclock, a delegation from Atlanta left Sunday afternoon for Washington.

The delegation consisted of T. C. Waters, county commissioner and legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of Georgia; J. P. Seawell, of the trainmen, and four others from this order: H. O. Teat, vice president of the locomotive firemen and enginemen; J. J. Hastings, C. T. Ladson and a number of others.

Within the last few weeks there has developed all over the country strong opposition to this act, which many labor men claim will do away with many of the safeguards provided by the employers' liability bill.

JEROME JONES VISITS SOUTH GEORGIA CITIES

Jerome Jones, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, returned to Atlanta yesterday from a trip to Bainbridge, Waycross, Macon and Savannah in the interest of organization work for the federation. Mr. Jones wass well received by the audiences which gathered to hear him speak in each of these cities and interest was apparently awakened in the approaching convention of the Georgia Federation of Labor, which will convene in Waycross next month.

President Jones states that from expressions so far heard in the towns visited there will be an active meeting of the federation in Waycross and there will be a gratifying attendance. He states that among the questions to come before the convention will be that of compulsory education and free text-books.

President Jones expects to pay an official visit to Fitzgerald and Rome the latter part of this week.

RIVERS SWOLLEN BY HEAVY SNOW

Flood Conditions Prevail in Many Sections and Warnings Are Issued.

St. Louis, March 24.—Heavy snow in the surrounding territory today aggravated flood conditions along the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio rivers. The Mississippi stood at 24.2 feet here tonight—a rise of two-tenths of a foot in twelve hours.

The gauge at Cairo, Ill., registered 48 feet tonight—a rise of 1.1 feet in twenty-four hours. The levee at Cairo can withstand 55 or 56 feet, but the lowlands of Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky are under several feet of water.

The Mississippi below Cairo reaches from the hills of Missouri to the hills of eKntucky, and is 40 miles wide in some places.

Washington, March 24.—Fifty-four and 55-foot water in the Ohio river at Cincinnati was predicted for Tuesday by the weather bureau tonight.

The lower Ohio river will continue to rise, and approximately 50 feet—or 5 feet above the flood stage—is predicted at Cairo by Thursday. Flood warnings have been issued for the Roanoke, Coosa, Alabama, Black Warrior, Tombigbee and lower Tennessee rivers, and flood stages for the Ohio between the mouth of the Big Sandy and Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, March 24.—The usual spring flood passed its ordinary limits today, and the Ohio river is surging over unusual heights. The river is expected to pass the 50-root stage early Monday morning, rising at the rate of two-tenths inch an hour.

Nine loaded coal barges went down today, with considerable loss.

DR. JENKINS TALKS AT CENTRAL CHURCH

On account of the illness of the pastor, Dr. George Loring Hanscom, the pulpit of the Central Congregational church was filled yesterday at the morning service by Rev. Frank E. Jenkins, a former pastor of the church, who is now superintendent of the home mission work in the south for this denomination.

Dr. Jenkins delivered an able discourse, his theme being "The Call of the Church of Leadership." He pled for progressiveness in the work of the church and said that extreme conservatism has hindered the spread of the gospel in all ages, while every advance has been made through the spirit of progress that leads men to seek the Truth whether anciently established or newly discovered.

Tramps Start Blaze—The rain and frigid blasts drove tramps into the vacant bungalow, 70 Ponce de Leon avenue, Sunday night, and in their eagerness to keep warm started a fire in the basement. Sparks set the building on fire at 9 o'clock, and for more than thirty minutes the department was kept on the jump preventing a spread of the flames. The house was saved from damage gerater than $50. The place is owned by Captain Bradley and was valued at $2,000. The house adjoining, occupied by Mrs. C. W. Winn, was damaged to the extent of $25 by fire and water.

ARE YOU GOING TO WIN AN AUTOMOBILE?

These Prizes Are Yours for the Effort. Campaign Will Be Short and Sweet

Costs You Nothing to Enter—Candidates May Secure Subscriptions Anywhere—Send in Your Nomination Today.

It has started with a rush. The $22,000 Circulation Campaign announced by The Constitution has met with a most enthusiastic reception by all of its readers. Letters and telephone calls are coming to the campaign manager in a steady stream, which indicates the highest degree of interest.

The double-page ad. in Sunday's paper opened the eyes of Constitution readers to the fact that there are rare opportunities now existing for women to win a high-grade automobile at the expense of The Constitution, and there is not the slighest doubt but what the campaign will be spirited from start to finish. The large number of automobiles to be given will no doubt attract the attention of every ambitious woman. Of course, automobiles are coveted by every one; however, the nine $325 pianos, nine Columbia grafonolas, valued at $100 each, and nine $50 solid gold watches will be most acceptable prizes for those who are not fortunate enough to win one of the automobiles.

We feel satisfied that never before has there been such a splendid array of prizes offered in any circulation campaign conducted in this part of the country and that a golden opportunity exists for those who are willing to devote their spare time in securing subscriptions to The Constitution. Most people work years to save what you can secure in a few weeks' time. The sooner you act, the better for all concerned.

The nomination blank, which will be found in this issue, is to be filled out by any woman who is desirious of entering the campaign and competing for any one of the forty prizes which we are offering. Upon receipt of the nomination blank, properly filled out, this department will at once supply you with a subscription book, also the necessary information which will prepare you to make a winning campaign.

The campaign is just starting, and as you will readily see by looking over the list of candidates as they appear in tomorrow's issue of The Constitution that there has been practically nothing done by any of the candidates up to this time. However, this condition will not exist long, as the wide-awake people are not going to miss the opportunity to secure an automobile for a few weeks' effort.

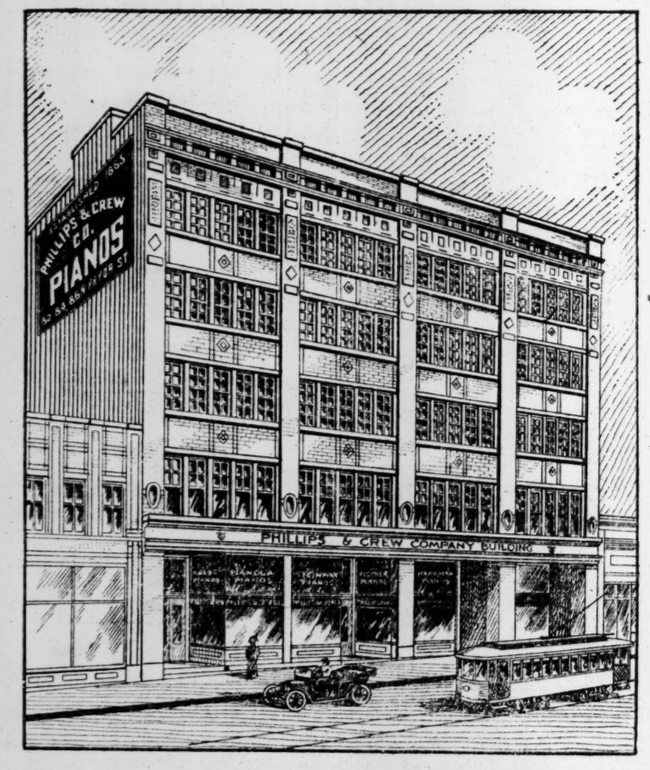

The voting schedule, which appears in this issue, indicates the number of votes given for the various payments; study this schedule carefully and you will readily see that it is an easy matter to secure a large number of votes for a few subscriptions.

If there are any points pertaining to the campaign that are not entirely clear to you, we will be very pleased to have you call, phone or write the campaign manager, who will give your inquiries prompt attention.

The standing of the candidates will appear in Tuesday's edition of the paper; glance over the list and see if the name of the woman that you would like to see win one of the thirteen automobiles, or any of the many other prizes we are offering, is entered in the list. If she is not entered, fill out the nomination blank as directed and send to the campaign department.

As a matter of fact, there is no establishment where prices are lower, quality considered. Nor where the range of prices is so great.

These pianos are now on display, and in addition we offer three used grand pianos, a FISCHER, KNABE and CHICKERING at very low prices. "Where is my wandering hat tonight?"

Nothing but pure-label ads will go with Editor Wiley.

Winter can't lose his grip. Spring is keeping it in cold storage.

The administration idea is that no delegate is as black as he is painted.

Many are the new inventions, but the safety mine is as far away as ever.

This time the big stick doesn't make the sound that's heard around the world.

At this season we wouldn't explore North Dakota for a house full of delegates.

Next to cherry tree fame is that of being known as the founder of the Ananias Club.

March is going angrily, and no wonder: He has so few sunny days to blow about.

What excellent work that steam roller might accomplish in the interest of good roads!

Couldn't possibly be a dull campaign, with the Dixie fiddlers reeling off the dance-tunes.

Certainly, there are statesmen in this country. They fairly crowd us in a presidential year.

There is the risk of being rushed into the Ananias Club, yet we continue to write it "This spring."

They say La Follette is so happy over it he's asking everyone if his pompadour is on straight.

La Follette came back, but nobody thought he'd have strength enough to kick anyone's dog around.

Cheer up. You may have your trials, but you may not be stenographer to a campaign speaker.

The fact that Spring has arrived officially ought not to entitle her to cut all sorts of queer capers.

The weather is just right for the selection of spring furs while she's giving the Easter hat a tryout.

North Dakota didn't leave enough of that hat to hand around in a limited crowd of souvenir hunters.

The higher the office the more fences to fix; Taft has to travel thousands of miles to repair his.

A few more deflections like the one in North Dakota and he will not need to incur the expense of a journey west.

President Taft says: "All we ask is a square deal." Well, isn't that what his third-term friend has promised him?

Think of what an honorary membership in the Society of Baltimore Hotelkeepers would mean to one in a convention year.

Secretary Knox wires that "results are satisfactory." One always feels that way after escaping a few dynamite explosions.

The seeker for "the calamity of the nomination" tells all comers that he stands on his Columbus speech. He does not stand alone. Many have jumped on it.

Sir Thomas Lipton wants the America's cup again. It's that jolly old habit of his. He invariably feels that way when the calendar says Spring.

THE NEGRO UPON WHOM RUIN WAITS.

Addressing a large audience of negroes at Macon recently, Richard D. Stinson, president of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, pleaded for such an educational system for the negro as will give "90 per cent of our people an education that will employ their hands, their time and their good sense." In default of such a system he declared that "ruin, shame and disgrace is bound to come to them."

These frank sentiments spoken by a negro to negroes carry large significance. They only bear out, however, what every unbiased observer of conditions in the south has long known. Stinson, since his institution is engaged in identically the sort of work he recommends, speaks authoritatively and with a clear conscience. The domestic servant problem in southern towns and cities is one of common, almost comical, notoriety. Here and there are left a few negroes, men and women, survivors of the ante-bellum regime. Trained under the watchful eye and the sympathetic but firm hand of the master or mistress of the "old plantation," they are the most competent and civil cooks, butlers, maids, seamstresses and waitresses that could be desired.

But this remnant is pitifully small and shrinking daily. Taking its place is a swarm of the younger generation, about ten per cent of them, as Stinson has correctly estimated, educated for the intellectual tasks, play for which is almost wholly lacking to them in either north or south, and the other 90 per cent a discouraging, hopeless conglomeration of inefficiency, complicated here and there by tendencies toward crime and disease. One would think that Atlanta, the best advertised city in the south, would attract the most capable negro servants in this section. What is the condition? Ask the average housewife. The average negro woman applying for work in the household is absolutely unfit as a cook, a maid, a seamstress or in any other household capacity. The same condition prevails with the negro men, sons of the men who used to be, under the patriarchal system, the best coachmen, the most reliable house servants and gardeners obtainable.

Go out into the rural districts and the situation is even aggravated. Farm labor is a farce, so far as its dependability and its quality are concerned. We say farce, but the matter is fast assuming the proportions of a tragedy so far as southern agriculture and the negro himself are involved. The explanation is of the simplest possible variety, and is given by Stinson himself as follows:

Our training in the college, university and grammar school has been too much of the theoretical, showy kind, more for name than reality. How many of our boys and girls, who are said to be well educated, are almost helpless for the reason that they can do nothing that really pays or that somebody wants done. This is illustrated by the large army to be seen at our depots, pool rooms and street corners in the red light districts of the communities and cities where we are so largely congested.

Against the magnificently-endowed colleges for the higher education of the negro, The Constitution makes no complaint. Their founders are doubtless inspired by excellent motives. But they reach a scant per cent of the millions of negroes in the south, and it is the other ninety per cent, the average negro, who is menaced by "ruin, shame and disgrace," and to whom "higher education" is useless. For this average negro there are tasks waiting in superabundance, tasks for which he is by nature fitted, in the discharge of which there is ample compensation. But he is not being fitted for them.

The twentieth century negro, treating the exceptional ones as negligible, is a square peg in the round hole of the south's twentieth century civilization. That sort of thing cannot continue indefinitely. Efficiency, preparedness are the keynotes of our time; the survival of the fit, the era's material religion. Unless industrial education and manual training reach out, after the Stinson formula, and rescue the threatened masses of the negro, the negro will ultimately become an actual, as he is even now a theoretical, anachronism in our all-demanding economic scheme. And it is well for the white people of the south to remember that they, like the old master and mistress of the ante-bellum regime, have almost as much at stake in the working out of the salvation of the negro as has the negro himself.

MORE WICKERSHAM ASSUMPTION.

How the office of the attorney general of the United States, assumedly a high and dignified one, can be trailed in the mire of controversy by the exigencies of partisan politics, is again illustrated in a dispatch from Nashville, Tenn., reporting another phase of the attorney general's campaign in behalf of his negro assistant, Lewis. This time the official in charge of the legal department of the United States government has fallen afoul of Judge John Allison, one of the foremost jurists in Tennessee. The Constitution narrated, a week or so ago, how Wickersham, employing the imprint and influence of his department, was crusading to have Lewis reinstated in the American Bar Association, from the rolls of which he had been dropped when the executive committee discovered it had been misled regarding his race. The association is almost as largely social as professional, and the overwhelming majority of the members are opposed to social equality between the races, which would have been inevitable with the retention of Lewis.

Judge Allison felt it his duty to protest against the reinstatement of Lewis, which project, with presidential-election-year fervor, Wickersham is pushing with all his might. Whereupon the latter wrote the judge rebuking him for what he characterized as an "entirely illegal and unjustified act." Judge Allison retorted that "I would feel somewhat rebuked had such a letter come from any other source than yourself."

The dispatch states the nub of the matter and discloses the unenviable position of the attorney general when it states that in one of Judge Allison's letters, "he favored revoking Lewis' admission because he understood Lewis' color had not been revealed to the association's committee."

Comment is superfluous. It has come to a sorry pass when, to manufacture a little cheap political capital, a cabinet officer stoops to bolster a trick upon one of the most august organizations in this country.

His Modesty of High Order.

Lord Tankerville, who is sending his son to an American school, said the other day in New York:

"There are too many Englishmen—and English boys as well—who develop, in the presence of a lord, a painful and unnatural modesty. Their modesty reminds me of a village tinker.

"This tinker had a rather crusty disposition, and his pastor said to him one day:

"'My man, you should love your neighbor as yourself.'

"'Yes, sir,' said the tinker.

"But the pastor had in mind a nasty black eye that the tinker had given the bricklayer next door, and so he went on:

"'Do you, though, do you honestly, love your neighbor as yourself?'

"'Yes, sir; oh, yes sir,' said the tinker; and he added, 'but I'm a modest man, ye see, and, to tell the truth, I ain't a bit stuck on myself, sir.'"

Lawyer—Life says that a consulting physician is "one who is called in at the last minute to share the blame."

Disgruntled Heir—To share the estate would be better.

The Song of the South Wind.

(Maud Going in April St. Nicholas.)

Now rouse ye, all ye little rills,
I come to end your sleep!
Make music in the silent hills,
Tinkle, and run, and leap!
How merrily you'll laugh and sing
When you have heard the news I bring.
Behind me—listen!—comes the Spring!

Wake, lakes and ponds that dormant lie!
For you must mirror soon
Soft silvery clouds, and budding boughs,
And the white April moon!
Rouse all the little frogs that sleep
Cradled so cold, cradled so deep,
And tell them they must learn to sing
Their sweet, high song to greet the Spring!

Poor, ice-bound rivers, mute and white,
I come to set you free!
Glide on, glad rivers, day and night,
And find your goal, the sea!
Whisper my tidings, as you go,
To vines and branches, bending low;
And river-reeds beneath the snow.

For up from the south, through the heaven's deep hollow,
With glad wings about her, and bright wings to follow,
With bluebird and whitethroat and robin and swallow,
Comes to us—listen—the Spring!

"Just From Georgia"

The Ingratitude of Candidates.

"There are more hungry mules in this settlement than in any other section of the country, we suppose," says The Adams Enterprise, "and they're causing trouble. A hungry mule is much like a man in that condition: He's mad and unsociable, and willing to cause trouble. It's easy to see why mules go hungry in a campaign year: They're tied out in the woods for hours at a time, and they can't feed on tariff speeches; hence, when they run around loose in the community they make a practice of braying before the homes of candidates, in the vain hope of having a bale of hay tossed out to them. There is nothing for the town marshal to do but to run them in, feed them at the town's expense, and charge it up to the owners. If candidates for office have no pity for dumb creatures, is it reasonable to suppose they'll lead the voters to clover when they get the offices they're after?"

Trouble's Clean Sweep.

I.

The March wind blew his roof away,
Shattered the gables, old and gray.
And adding then, to the wrathful wrong,
Carried the family tree along;
And as he stood, of all bereft—
With only life and a dim dime left,
A hat was tossed in the ruined ring,
And one played a banjo-tune of "Spring."

II.

And wasn't the soul in his bosom stirred
When that cheerful song of Spring he heard?
And didn't he kneel on the sod and say:
"I'm thankful now for a brighter day;
I'm glad that you happened to hike my way?"
Ah, no! He wasn't on thankful ground,
And there was a banjo kicked around,
And a cheerful singer soared on high—
Got a dynamite-lift to the hopeless sky,
And bade this hurricane-world good-bye!

CHATTOOGA CO. ROADS KNOCKED BY GRAND JURY

Lyerly, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—The grand jury, which was in session a week at the county courthouse at Summerville, has made a final report, and many bills returned, some of which were of a sensational nature. The jury reports that the county farm is in good condition, although the buildings need repairs.

The jury, from their own personal knowledge, finds the public highways in very bad condition. Interesting extracts from the presentments follow:

"From reports from the different parts of the county, and from our own personal knowledge, the roads of the county are in very bad condition, and we realize, under the present system, that road improvement is almost an impossibility. We, therefore, recommend that the board of roads and revenues make application for our convicts and that they be placed on the roads of our county.

"We further recommend that the board employ a competent road engineer to survey the main thoroughfares of the county, and that an estimate be made on cost to put these roads in first-class condition. With this information the taxpayers of the county could, if called upon, cast an intelligent ballot on the question of bonds."

At present the convicts of Chattooga county are sent to Floyd county and worked on the public roads, and it is the purpose of the jury to have these brought back and placed on the Chattooga county roads.

PUBLIC OBLIGATION TO CAUSE OF EDUCATION

New York, March 24.—"In general, the sense of public obligation to the cause of education appears to be stronger and more widespread than ever, but the time has plainly come when private and local initiative need more guidance from the point of view of the state and of the nation."

Such was the conclusion reached by President Henry S. Pritchett, of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, in the annual report made public tonight, reviewing the sixth year's work of the foundation.

The sum of $526,000 was spent in retiring allowances and pensions during the year, the report shows.

TENDENCY TO DIVERSIFY IN MANUFACTURING

Washington, March 24.—An increased tendency toward diversification in manufacturing industries in the United States was observed by federal officials who have compiled statistics of the relative importance of manufacturing industries. The statistics cover the ten-year period ending with 1909, and were collected by the census bureau.

The report on the investigation states that the less important industries of the country showed greater percentages of increase during the period than the more important ones. By far the highest percentage of increase was noted in the automobile industry. Exceptionally large increases were credited to the copper, tin and sheet iron industries. Large decreases in the average number of wage earners was shown in the iron and steel, blast furnaces, sugar and molasses industries.

The manufacturing industries of the United States employ as wage earners 6,615,046 people, or almost 14½ per cent of the total population; the value of the products of these industries is $20,672,052,000, and the value added by their manufacture is $8,530,261,000.

The number of wage earners increased 40.4 per cent since 1899, and the value of products 81.2 per cent. These figures represent the totals of manufacturing establishments conducted under the factory system, as distinguished from the neighborhood, hand and building industries.

The slaughtering and meat-packing industry ranks first in gross value of products, with $1,370,568,000; second is foundry and machine shop products, with $1,228,475,000; third, lumber and timber products, with $1,156,129,000; fourth, iron and steel, steel works and rolling mills, with $985,728,000, and, fifth, flour mills and grist mills products, with $883,584,000.

PROFESSOR CARTER DIES IN AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—Prof. L. H. Carter, one of Americus oldest citizens, died last evening after a protracted illness, aged 75 years. Professor Carter was a native of Mechlenberg county, Va., but came to Americus when a young man and has since resided here, honored and esteemed generally. As a member of the Sumter Light Guards, he served through the civil war, and for many years thereafter he was engaged in educational work here as instructor in Furlow Masonic Female College and afterwards in other local schools.

Professor Carter was a quiet, cultured gentleman of the old school, and his death is regretted. The funeral services this afternoon were conducted by Rev. J. W. Stokes, of the Presbyterian church, and Dr. O. B. Chester, of the First Methodist Church, and were largely attended. Camp Sumter No. 642, United Confederate Veterans, and the Masonic order here were represented in the funeral services.

JUDGE LITTLEJOHN MAY ENTER RACE IN THIRD

Americus, Ga., March 24—(Special.) The completion of the congressional campaign in the third district may be materially changed ere long if, as his friends believe, Judge Z. A. Littlejohn, of the southwestern judicial circuit, decides to get into the game. That Judge Littlejohn has the subject of his candidacy under serious consideration there seems no doubt, and this is accentuated by requests of strong friends in each of the fifteen counties of the third to announce for congress.

During the next six weeks Judge Littlejohn will be very busy on the bench in the several counties of his circuit, but when this work is finished his friends are strongly inclined to the belief that he will announce his candidacy and get into the running with Judge Charles Crisp and Hon. John R. Mercer, both of whom formally announced their candidacy several months ago and have since been at work in the third district.

SEASON TICKET SALE WILL END THIS WEEK

Only this week remains for the sale of season tickets for Atlanta's 1912 season of grand opera. The sale has been in progress now for two weeks, with most gratifying results, the receipts eclipsing all records heretofore made in Atlanta.

The sale exclusively of season tickets will end on Saturday next, March 30, and on Monday, April 1, the sale of seats for single performances will begin.

While the sale has been unprecedented, it must be borne in mind that there are seven operas this year, whereas there were only five in 1910 and four in 1911. Many good seats are, therefore, still available for season ticket purchases, and those who desire to secure them will do well to make their selections as early as possible this week.

"THE FIGHTING MARINE" OVER THE GREAT DIVIDE

Washington, March 24.—Robert F. Wynne, former captain in the United States marine corps, known in the service as "The Fighting Marine," died here today at the home of his father, former Postmaster General Robert J. Wynne. Captain Wynne was 36 years old. He died of tuberculosis, contracted in China during the campaign against the Boxers.

Captain Wynne had a spectacular career that earned for him his nickname. He served in Cuba, the Philippines, and China, and received the thanks of congress and several medals before he left the corps. He resigned from the service after a dramatic courtmartial several years ago.

Former President Roosevelt accepted his resignation because of Captain Wynne's splendid record. His friends believe that his gradual decline in health was due largely to his forced retirement.

CALL JUDGE FROM CHURCH TO HEAR DEATH VERDICT

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 24.—The death penalty was imposed by a jury here today on Tom Slaughter, a 19-year-old negro, charged with murdering Lee Jenkins during a quarrel over the purchase of a dime's worth of cheese in Jenkins' store at Edgeton, Ky. The jury was sent out last night and Judge Hanberry was called from church this morning to receive the verdict.

The conviction of Slaughter has relieved the tension of public feeling in the Edgeton vicinity, where the populace was aroused. Two negroes who had been active in Slaughter's defense were shipped by whitecappers.

YULES COCHRAN KILLS ENGINEER E. E. GIBSON

Key West, Fla., March 24.—E. E. Gibson, an engineer on the Florida and East Coast railroad, was shot and killed early today by Yules Cochran, who later was arrested. According to the police, Cochran was intoxicated and attempted to kill R. T. Canthorn, another engineer, before he shot Gibson. Gilson leaves a widow and three children at Miami, Fla.

POLES ARE NOT PAINTED; LAW IS OPENLY VIOLATED

There is a city ordinance, section 2486, of the Code, which reads as follows:

All telegraph or telephone poles erected in the streets of the city shall be painted, and said painting shall be kept in good repair. The chief of construction may at any time notify the owners of said poles to paint or repair the same, and upon their failure to do so within ten days, the poles shall be removed."

And yet nearly all of the telephone and telegraph poles in Atlanta are not painted and they present a very unattractive appearance and greatly mar the appearance of the streets.

Unpainted poles are not only unattractive, but they give breeding places for vermin and insects that may cause diseases and endanger the health of the people. It was both as a sanitary measure and one to help the appearance of the city that the ordinance quoted above was adopted several years ago by the mayor and general council.

It is the duty of the police department to enforce the city laws and yet here is one that no efforts were ever made to enforce and that no person connected with the police department, from the chief down to the hostler, ever gave any attention to.

While the movement is under way for a cleaner Atlanta, a number of people are complaining about the unsightly poles; let the police department, backed by the chief of construction, see to it that the companies owning the poles are made to paint them at once.

There can be found scattered all over the city beautiful homes, some of them freshly painted, in front of which there stand unpainted blackened and disreputable telegraph or telephone poles. They mar the appearance of the homes and are eyesores to everybody who sees them.

There has been a cry for the "City Beautiful" and the good women have organized civic bodies to push the work of beautifying Atlanta, but until the unsightly, unpainted poles are painted there will be no city beautiful. Said a prominent citizen in speaking about this matter:

"It is somebody's duty to see that the important law requiring the painting of poles is enforced. The law is a good one and was believed to be so important by council that the chief of construction is empowered to remove them if they are not painted after ten days' notice. If the chief of police does not take this matter up I and other citizens will make an appeal to the police commissioners or to the city council."

FUTURE OF W. & A. RAILROAD IS STATE'S BIGGEST PROBLEM

The biggest problem that confronts Georgia today, according to Hon. John M. Slaton, president of the senate, is the future of the Western and Atlantic railroad.

Mr. Slaton did not discuss the state road in his recent brief announcement of his candidacy for governor, as that was intended in no sense to be his platform; this will be given to the public later and in detail.

Opposed to the Sale.

"I am opposed to the sale of the Western and Atlantic railroad at any time," Mr. Slaton said in speaking of the property. "It stands as a guarantee for all the bonds of the state, and is an important source of income for the common schools. The present lease will expire at the close of 1919, just a few years hence, and in my opinion steps should be taken now to conserve the states interests in the handling of this problem. It would be too late to wait until a time just before the expiration of the lease to decide what we are going to do about it.

"As president of the senate I appointed a committee last summer to investigate and make recommendations as to the future of the state road. On this committee I named Senator Harris, president of an insurance company; Senator Bush, owner of 21,000 acres of land, and Senator Shingler, president of several banks. All of them are sound business men and not one of them is interested in any railroad company. I am looking to this committee for some interesting and valuable information bearing on this important state property and the future of it."

The Matter of Pardons.

Mr. Slaton made the interesting statement that before an application for executive clemency reached the governor, the case must have been dealt with by twenty-five officers of the state, each of whom is sworn to enforce the law.

"It is a serious responsibility a governor takes," he said, "when he reverses what twenty-five sworn officials of the state have done. Those who deal with a criminal case are the arresting officer, the committing magistrate, the trial judge, the prosecuting attorney, the twelve jurors, the six justices of the supreme court and the three members of the prison commission. If we should add to that also the grand jury we have nearly fifty state officers who have then passed upon the case before it reaches the governor. I realize that there are cases in which executive clemency should be granted, but I believe it should be done only after careful and due consideration of the interests and rights of society, which is entitled to the fullest protection of the law, both for person and property."

While Mr. Slaton was governor, following the resignation of Governor Hoke Smith, he passed upon seven or eight cases in which the death sentence had been imposed. In only two of these did he grant commutation—one the case of a negro from Milton county in which commutation to life imprisonment had been unanimously recommended by the prison commission, and the other that of a white man in Brooks county, who had been pronounced insane by a board of medical experts.

DOORS OF ATHENS TRUST FOUND OPEN BY OFFICER

Athens, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—More complications have arisen in the affairs of the defunct Athens Trust and Banking Company. The night police found the front door of the building open last night and reported the matter to the receiver, who is positive that he locked and fastened the door. There are eight different keys to the door distributed about among different parties in the city, according to the receiver, and he has not been able to collect them. There was nothing whatever disturbed by the party who entered the bank. All the papers had been double locked in the big vault and the combination has been changed by the receiver since he took charge, while all money has been deposited in another bank.

Notes amounting to several hundred dollars, said to have been deposited in the bank before it closed, are advertised in the papers and the public warned not to trade them. They were not among the property transferred to the custody of Receiver Frank Lipscomb.

BIG LEAK DISCOVERED IN MISSISSIPPI LEVEE

Hickman, Ky., March 24.—With 8,000 bags of sand on the levee and a patrol watching for leaks, the feeling of uneasiness here, caused by the discovery last night of a big leak about two miles below the town, is somewhat allayed. The surface of the Mississippi river is seven feet above the level of the ground back of the levee and the lower part of Hickman, and has been rising at the rate of a foot and a half a day, but it is believed the crest is passing.

CATTLE QUARANTINE LIFTED BY WILSON

Washington, March 23.—By order of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, the following counties will be released tomorrow from the cattle tick fever quarantine:

King and Pecos counties, Texas, also portions of Howard and Terrell counties; portions of Ripley, Oregon, Newton and McDonald countie in Missouri; Panola and Adams counties, Mississippi; Hart county, Ga.; Union, Laurens, Cherokee, Spartanburg and Greenwood, and portions of Abbeville, York and Chester counties, South Carolina; Lawrence and Benton, and portions of Hardeman, Hamilton and Polk counties, Tennessee.

SEVEN HUNDRED SIGNED IN BIBB FOR UNDERWOOD

Macon, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—That Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, will carry Bibb county without any trouble is indicated by the fact that over 700 persons have already put their names on petitions favoring the formation of an Underwood club. The friends of the Alabama congressman say that before another week passes fully twice that many names will be secured.

Knox Leaves Caracas Today.

Caracas, March 24.—A whirlwind finish marked the last day of the visit of the American secretary of state, Mr. Knox, and his party to the Venezuelan capital. He will leave tomorrow morning for Puerto Cabello. The secretary drove this morning to the residence of the foreign minister, General Manuel Matos, where he was entertained. He had luncheon with the American minister, Elliott Northcott, at the legation. There were special races at the Hippodrome, and later a reception and ball given by President Gomez at the Miraflores Palace.

MANY GIRLS OF MACON WOULD BE ACTRESSES

Macon, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—That many Macon girls are "stage" struck was demonstrated the past week when a man known as Dr. Littledeer registered at a local hotel and inserted an ad in the morning paper for girls who wanted to enter the theatrical profession. A number of girls called at the hotel to see him, and he is known to have engaged one. There was an air of mystery about the man and just how he intends to put the girls on the stage is not known.

The local officers of the W. C. T. U. are making an investigation and will endeavor to learn what becomes of girls who are attracted by the advertisement, and engaged for the theatrical profession. Dr. Littledeer is said to have gone to Columbus from Macon.

GOVERNOR OF SAMOS MURDERED BY GREEK

Constantinople, March 24.—Adre Kepassis Effendi, prince-governor of the island of Samos, was assassinated today by a Greek, who fired several shots at him. The assassin was arrested.

The crime was due to a political crusade against the prince-governor, against whom the enmity of the Hellenic party in the island had been directed since his appointment as ruler by Turkey, in 1907.

TWO DROWNED WAITERS BURIED ON JEKYL ISLAND

Brunswick, Ga., March 24.—(Special.) Rev. R. F. Boykin, of Brunswick, conducted the funeral services of George Harvey and Hector Delijanis, who were buried on Jekyl island yesterday.

Harvey and Delijanis were employed as waiters at the Jekyl Island Club and were drowned while in surf bathing on Thursday.

Both men were young. Harvey was born at Forrest Gate, London, and Delijanis was a native of Smyrna.

Guests and employees of the club attended the services, which were held in the chapel.

Two Fatally Injured.

Birmingham, Ala., March 24.—C. S. Fulton and M. C. Halkem were brought to Birmingham tonight, fatally injured as the result of a free-for-all fight at Inland, a small town on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in Blount county. According to the accounts, three men were doing the shooting and Fulton was shot accidentally by Halkem, who was his friend.

Congress on Hygiene.

Washington, March 24.—A movement for the standardization of hygienic methods throughout the world will be inaugurated at the international congress on hygiene and demography, which meets here September 23-28, in response to the invitation of the president and congress. This will be the first time in the sixty years of its existence that this international body has met in the United States.

The Shadowy Days.

The wraiths and dreams of all the years
Are knocking at my door tonight,
And I would parley hold with them,
Because they bring with them the light,
Or, maybe, shadows of the past—
And that doth mean the rose and rue
Dwelt then in some sweet garden place,
As they dwell now for me and you.

Yes, Life is still a dream, a faint
Fond vision of the great to Be;
Yet, I would know the secret old,
Could I interpret you and me.
This may not be, for shadows creep,
And twilights revel through the ways,
At last but Love abides, to breathe
Its dream throughout the shadowy days.

PROBE IS USED BY DEMOCRATS

This Congress Has Been an Investigating Congress.

Never Before Have There Been So Many Inquiries Undertaken—Rules Committee to Take Up the Lawrence Mill Strike This Week.

Washington, March 24.—Since the democrats came into control of the house last spring congress has been an investigating congress. Aside from inquiries into government departments, special inquiries have been made, most notable among them those into the United States Steel Corporation and the American Sugar Refining Company.

The steel inquiry, conducted by a special committee, headed by Representative Stanley, of Kentucky, has been under way nearly a year and may close this week. The report probably will be made by May 1. It will be a series of recommendations. One of them is almost certain to be that large corporations such as the United States Steel Corporation should not own or control common carriers.

The inquiry into the sugar refining company by a committee headed by Representative Hardwick, of Georgia, closed some time ago, and while the report recommended no legislation, the data collected was used by democratic leaders in framing the free sugar bill which has passed the house and is now up to the senate.

Probe of "Money Trust."

Investigations into the "money trust" and the shipping combine are about to get under way. The first has been divided into two sections. Representative Pujo, of Louisiana, will head a committee to investigate the money trust, and a sub-committee headed by Representative Glass, of Virginia, will study the Aldrich plan of currency reform. No public hearings may be held for some time.

The inquiry into the shipping combine by the committee on merchant marine will begin probably within the next week.

The rules committee this week will take up conditions at the Lawrence mill strike which were the subject of public hearings recently, and may order an inquiry into the affairs of the American Woolen Company. Another hearing that has been going on concerns the circumstances under which the United States took over the Panama canal strips and the demands of Colombia that her claims for damages be submitted to The Hague.

In the committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture, the Florida Everglades land charges have been aired. A report from that committee is expected by June 1. It was charged that the department was influenced in its reports on the everglades by land speculators.

A resolution proposing an investigation of the baseball trust will be taken up by the rules committee this week. The general feeling is that it will be reported adversely.

The Case of Major Ray.

Of all the house standing committees which have been investigating government departments since last summer, none has made a report. The war department committee's investigation of alleged political activities of Maj. Beecher B. Ray, is still in progress. The state department committee, headed by Representative Hamlin, of Missouri, is planning recommendations to change to departments system of accounting.

An inquiry into the Indian bureau is to be conducted by the interior department committee, headed by Representative Graham, of Illinois.

The postoffice committee has spent most of its time investigating former Postmaster General Cortelyou's "fraud order" against the Lewis Publishing Company, of St. Louis, Mo., and is expected to make a report before the end of the session.

In the senate, an inquiry by the interstate commerce commission into the trust problem is expected to result in recommendations for legislation to supplement the Sherman law.

Special inquiries into the rights of Senator Stephenson, of Wisconsin, and Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, to their seats, have been ended. Senator Stephenson's case will come up in the senate tomorrow, and probably will be discussed until Wednesday. His supporters claim a safe majority for him. The progressive republicans and democrats, who have attacked the senator's election, make no predictions, but promise to continue their fight.

The Vote on Lorimer.

Senator Lorimer's case comes to a vote before the special investigating committee on Wednesday, which his supporters claim will be 5 to 3 in his favor. They hazard no prediction as to the outcome in the senate. The big fight will be made on the plea of the senator's counsel, who holds that the Lorimer case was once decided by the senate and is not open to another investigation.

Some of the senators who were inclined to vote against him are said to be hesitating at the contention that no senator can be tried twice for the same offense.

Leaders of both parties are making efforts to adjourn congress before the national conventions. In the house June 10 has been tentatively set as the date for which the leaders aim. Senate leaders are co-operating in this, and some of the mhave declared there is no reason why congress cannot be adjourned by that time.

WOODSON SCORES BALTIMORE RATES

Secretary of Democratic Committee Says Hotels Haven't Acted Fairly.

Owensboro, Ky., March 24.—Urey Woodson, secretary of the democratic national committee, today made public a letter which, under date of March 19, he has sent to Robert Crain, chairman of the Baltimore convention committee, regarding hotel rates at Baltimore during the national convention.

In his letter to Chairman Crain, Secretary Woodson encloses letters from numerous members of the democratic committee who approve his efforts to secure lower rates. Secretary Woodson also sends a photographic copy of the agreement that the proprietors of the leading hotels in Baltimore are alleged to have signed and forwarded to the national committee, pledging themselves not to raise the rates in the event that Baltimore secured the convention. Rates quoted by hotels in St. Louis and Chicago are also sent to Mr. Crain, showing that the hotel proprietors in those cities agreed not to raise the rates quoted, if given the convention.

Mr. Woodson, in his letter to Mr. Crain, says in part:

"I see in the newspapers today a dispatch from Baltimore saying that the executive committee of the democratic national committee has investigated Baltimore hotel rates for the convention, and concluded that under the circumstances they are reasonable and fair.

"The adoption by your citizens' organization of the name of the democratic national convention committee may mislead some into the belief that the executive committee or subcommittee of the democratic national committee has made this investigation and rendered this verdict, which, as you know, is not true.

"The action of your committee makes it, therefore, necessary that I should send you, as well as give to the press, excerpts from a large number of the letters from the members of the national committee, showing just how they feel they have been mistreated by the Baltimore hotels. Not one member of the committee has said these rates were reasonable or just. Only about three of them have suggested that as we have had to submit to this thing in the past, we had as well submit to it gracefully. You will see from the letters I send you that there is fight in many of these gentlemen.

"I am quite willing to submit the matter to the delegates and alternates and others who expect to attend the Baltimore convention, on the facts and figures I have presented."

POCKETS OF DAYLIGHT THIEF WERE FILLED WITH WATCHES

The screams of a woman in distress sent Policemen Wood and Jackson to the home of Mrs. Walter N. Huddleston, 22 Ripley street, Sunday afternoon. The streets were crowded with men, women and children. It was just 2 o'clock and the officers were met with the startling announcement that there were burglars in the houes.

As the policemen dashed to the house pointed out to them they saw a young negro emerge. He carried his head high in the air, and was whistling "Casey Jones." No one, not even the officers, suspected him of being the burglar, and he would have probably walked away from the scene without molestation had not Mrs. Huddleston walked upon the scene.

"That is the man," she cried, excitedly. "Don't let him get away. He is the man I saw in the house."

The negro was made a prisoner. He said his name was Henry Sowders, 17 years, living at Columbus, Ga. He said that he was in the neighborhood looking for friends. His coat pockets bulged with swag he gathered from the Huddleston home. Four watches, two toy banks, a lot of silver trinkets, all belonging to Mrs. Huddleston, were found in his possession. He said that a boy gave him the watches.

He was booked at police barracks on a charge of entering in the daytime and larceny, and Mrs. Huddleston, who is a widow of three weeks, has been summoned by the police as the principal witness against the daylight prowler.

"BABBLING BESS" TO STAR IN VAUDEVILLE NEXT YEAR

"Babbling Bess" is planning to leave the musical comedy field, and take an excursion trip into vaudeville next season.

"Bess," it might be mentioned, is Lucy Daly, the wife of Hap Ward, of Ward and Vokes, and one of the most talented little women on the stage today in the comedy line.

The vaudeville bee has been buzzing in her ear for some time. She is doing mighty well as it is, from a financial standpoint, of course, for "The Trouble Makers" is some money-maker, and Hap Ward doesn't really have to work. Chances are he could buy up any patron of the Lyric last week. Still, it is nice for people to talk to you in alluring figures, hundreds and thousands, and so forth, and that's the way they've been talking to "Bess."

The money they mentioned as compensation for one week's work would give most working girls heart failure. Just to keep folks from getting jealous, the sum won't be stated, but it could give cards and spades to the salary for a year of the majority of men in Atlanta, who are supporting wifey and baby as well.

Miss Daly recently gave Atlanta an idea of what her act will be in her specialty which opens the second act. She is planning to carry sixteen people with her, which will give her all she needs in youth and beauty in girls, looks and brawn in chorus men, and leave something over for stage brain as well.

Remember her song about the different phases of life? Recall the folks who came across the stage, then into the wings; some young and pretty, some worn by years, some rich, some poor, all parts well done? The panorama of classes was presented, all were there—the thief, the gambler, girlie in the front row of the chorus, the workingman, his wife, his little child, the henpecked husband.

The act opens with the stylishly dressed young lady in black, with her background of six young men. They leave the stage a moment, and when the applause has died down, Bess is back again, the dress gone, and a bonny young man bowing to the audience. Then the passing of the throng, and "Bess" is off again, only to reappear, in her own person this time, a rollicking, fun-loving comedienne, whose "w's" are her trade mark.

There is something that strangely holds you in the song, used for her act, a tuneful, plaintive air, that is seldom heard in vaudeville, which will prove of value in keeping the attention of the "highbrows" as well as the people in the gallery.

There's not a question of a doubt about it. "Babbling Bess" will have Vesta Victoria, Kathleen Clifford, Alice Lloyd and all the other English actresses who play the boy role so well, hunting cover when the season of 1912 rolls around (excuse the error, "wolls wound").

The last report is of the defection of the Lieblers, who have been for years close friends of the Shuberts and who were in fact their first allies.

For some time there has been a growing companionship of interests between the "syndicate" and the Lieblers, a number of Liebler attractions being placed in Klaw and Erlanger New York houses.

Homer's Odyssey, the southern rights to which cost Jake Wells over $16,000, will be seen at the Grand all the week of April 1. This is said to be one of the greatest moving pictures ever taken, it being claimd that the production cost over $100,000. Mr. Wells will play the pictures in all of the biggest houses of this section before hot weather starts.

There have been many inquiries made recently as to the date when Forbes Robertson will come to Atlanta in the "Passing of the Third Floor Back."

Manager Sands, of the Grand, announced last night that Mr. Robertson would be here on April 8 for an engagement of three nights and a matinee.

It is confidently expected that when he comes there will be a record sale for the season set, for the production as a whole is one of the most popular successes ever offered Atlanta theatergoers.

Booked as the greatest act in vaudeville, Paul Armstrong's "Romance of the Underworld," comes to the Forsyth this week. The sketch is being expanded into a three-act play and will soon be seen in the high-priced theaters.

It leaked out on Saturday that pretty little Pauline Welch, who was so successful at the Forsyth last week, greatly, too, through the valuable aid of George Spink, appeared here in Atlanta since her childhood engagement with the Fawcett Company at the Bijou.

She was here a number of weeks in the little vaudeville houses, principally at the house that afterwards was known as the Idlehour on Marietta street, in the Bijou block.

She played in other places here and in close-by cities, but like Gertie Hoffman, who came up from a chorus girl position to vaudeville's greatest feature in the woman class, Pauline Welch has nearly reached the summit of her career, for she is to soon read the play that is to be used for her starring tour.

Bud Fisher was won by Atlanta. His visit here was in the nature of a treat. He was not at all pleased in having to leave early Sunday morning for St. Louis, where he is to appear before his return to New York to sail for his annual European vacation. He would have given most anything to have gotten out of his St. Louis engagement and spent the week here.

"I don't blame you folk for talking about Atlanta. I am going to be a booster for the town from now on, and I am going to drop in on you one of these bright days for a rest and a vacation, just as plain Bud Fisher, and make it all pleasure and no business."

CHARLES R. CRISP STATES PLATFORM

Candidate From Third Favors Lowest Tariff Possible and Parcels Post.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, March 24.—(Special.)—Charles R. Crisp, the capable parliamentarian of the house, in announcing his platform as a candidate for congress from the new third Georgia district, recites the fact that in 1896 when a candidate for the seat of his father, Speaker Charles F. Crisp, he incorporated in his platform a demand for an amendment to the federal constitution that would remove all doubt of the legality of an income tax.

Congress submitted such an amendment for ratification in 1909, thirteen years later, and it now lacks the approval of only eight states to make the amendment binding as a part of the organic law.

Looking forward to this result, which is bound to come, Judge Crisp now says: "As soon as ratified I favor a graduated income tax so as to require the idle rich and the vast wealth of the country, accumulated by class legislation, to bear its just part of the burdens of government."

Other planks in his platform denounce extravagant expenditures of public money; declare for the economical administration of the affairs of government; the lowest tariff possible to provide revenues to run the government, economically administered. On this point Judge Crisp says:

"I favor the lowest tariff possible to provide revenue to run the government, economically administered, and believe this tax should be collected from the luxuries of life and that all necessaries, such as sugar, foods of all kinds, all clothing, mechanics' tools, farming implements and things of kindred nature should be absolutely free from taxation. I advocate raising revenue to support the government from an income tax and an internal revenue tax, which policy would destroy trusts and monopolies created and maintained by the protective tariff law. Should an income and internal revenue tax fail to produce sufficient revenue to administer the affairs of the nation I would collect the additional amount needed from the luxuries of life, the duty on which would go into the treasury of the United States and not into the coffers of the 'tariff barons.'"

Recalling that the first appropriation for rural free delivery was secured by Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, and that he, as a member of the committee on postoffice and post-roads, helped increase the original appropriation from $10,000 to $50,000, Mr. Crisp advocates still greater increase in the service. He also favors a general parcels post, the rate of postage to be graduated according to distance transported, and the weight and bulk of the parcel.

Among other things he favors are strict regulation of public utility corporations and the physical valuation of their property; permitting national banks to loan money on real estate; international peace; government aid for good roads; opposition to gambling in farm products; adoption of illiteracy test for foreign immigration; opposition to ownership of Philippine Islands; reduction of the regular army and navy; passage of an employers' liability law, and opposition to class legislation.

Money in Ducks.

Thomasville, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—Eighty-three dollars in less than two weeks is what R. S. Heeth, of this city, has made from the sale of eggs from the Indian Runner ducks. Mr. Heeth raises these ducks "on the side," and is only an amateur fancier, but having quantities of the eggs, he decided to dispose of them and found the demand for them was greater than he had any idea of and as much as he could supply. The duck-raising fad is rapidly growing here and in many of the back yards some beautiful droves of them may be seen.

JOE HALL'S STAND ON PROHIBITION

Macon Candidate for Governor Wants Present Law to Stand.

Following is the exact statement of Hon. Joe Hill Hall on the question of prohibition as made in his recent Crawford county address, delivered in Knoxville. In making report of the address The Constitution summarized it, and at Mr. Hall's request this feature is published in full. He said:

Prohibition Issue for the People.

"I do not think it necessary or wise that the question of prohibition should have any place in the platform of a candidate for governor. That is a matter that should be settled by the representatives of the people who are elected by them to the general assembly or by direct vote of the people themselves in a primary. I recognize, however, that it is an issue in the politics of Georgia; that the voters have a right to know what my individual views on this question are, and I have no hesitancy in declaring them, although they have been publicly expressed by me on many occasions in the general assembly and otherwise during the last fourteen years.

Wants Present Law to Stand.

"It is well known that I have been opposed to the enactment of a state prohibition law, but at the same time it has been equally well known among those who cared to correctly understand my position that I have always opposed bar-rooms. I voted against the present prohibition law because I did not think it the wisest measure on the subject, but I realized then and I realize now that some good could be accomplished by it. As we have the law I am opposed to its repeal. I believe it can be perfected by proper amendments which would authorize the sale of alcoholic, spirituous, malt and vinous liquors along the lines and within the restirctions of the substitute I offered to the Tippins bill, which was introduced at the last session of the legislature and which is now pending before the general assembly. I believe that with this change in the law it would meet with popular approval and that it would then be enforced in every part of the state.

"Any law or change in the law should be submitted to the vote of the people for their ratification or rejection, as much of the opposition to the present law grows out of the fact that many intelligent and worthy people resent it because they feel that it was put upon them without their consent."

MERCURY DROPS NEAR 40 MARK

But Spring Is Expected to Return Tonight or Tomorrow.

With the mercury hovering near the 40 mark, the wind blowing at times almost a gale, and the rain alternately pouring and drizzling Sunday was anything but pleasant and most people showed their appreciation of the fact by remaining indoors. In comparison with the spring days that had gone before the day was a midwinter one.

Several feared last night that snow would fall before this morning, but this was scouted by the weatherman. Late in the afternoon rain fell slowly, then ceased, and the first sign of clearing skies was seen last night at 7 o'clock. It is probable that it will be clear this morning.

During Sunday it was extremely muddy almost everywhere in the city, the slush being spread in all directions by automobiles and pedestrains, the rain not being sufficient to carry the mud away.

Clear weather is expected for Monday and Monday night it should begin to get warmer. It is thought that the spring will really come after today and it is probable that the weather during the remainder of the week will be warm and comfortable.

"JOHNSON, THE HIKER," STRIKES THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—On his long jaunt of 11,171 miles and carrying a guinea pig in his arms, "Johnson, the hiker," struck Thomasville yesterday on his way from Tallahassee to Atlanta.

Johnson left Topeka, Kan., on November 21, 1911, on a wager to walk 11,141 miles in 365 days, and visit every capital in the United States. The total distance to be made by him is 16,500, but he is to walk only the number specified. Up to the present date he has walked 3,697 miles of the required number.

He is dressed in overalls and is required to work his way, not being allowed a penny of money and being forbidden to ask charity. He carries a novelty register along for names and business advertisements and at the close of his journey this will be put on exhibition. So far he has managed to make his way all right and left Thomasville, after a short stop, for Atlanta via Albany.

THE NEW ITALY

To those who know Italy as the most beautiful pleasure ground in the world and as a vast storehouse of wonderful antiquities, the article upon Italy's Economic Outlook will supply a new and modern point of view. After all, Italy is a nation which must work out its own economic welfare just as a nation less highly favored and gifted by history and nature. James Davenport Whelpley has made a study of business conditions in Italy, one of the series in the Trade of the World papers, which will interest everyone, but which will especially interest those to whom the commercial progress of this world is an important study. Right now, while Italy is occupying the center of the stage in her troubles with Turkey, this paper is particularly timely.

VICE COMMISSION NAMED THIS WEEK

Mayor Winn in No Hurry, as He Wants Good Men.

The members of the vice commission, which was created in an ordinance, adopted by council at its last meeting, will probably be appointed by the mayor some time this week.

The committee is to consist of two aldermen, three councilmen and five citizens. The mayor is to name the chairman of the commission from among his appointees. The term of office is six months.

The duties of the commission, as stated in the ordinance, will be to investigate the "social evil" and to make a report with recommendations to council on the houses of questionable character in the city and what should be done to abolish them. The commission is required to report not later than next October, and sooner, if possible.

Mayor Winn states that he has taken plenty of time to name this commission, as he considers it a very important body, and he desires it to be composed of conservative citizens who will do the work thoroughly and well and who will use good and sound judgment.

WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful — And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when often it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has restored the health of thousands of suffering women. Why don't you try it?

CLEAN-UP DAY FOR COLUMBUS

Plans Will Be Perfected at a Mass Meeting This Afternoon.

Columbus, Ga., March 24.—(Special.) "For a cleaner Columbus" might be termed the slogan of a mass meeting called for tomorrow afternoon at the board of trade hall.

Not that Columbus lacks cleanliness more than the average city—as a matter of fact, sanitary conditions here are quite good—but the public mind has become charged with the importance of having a common cleaning-up day early this spring. The idea was first advanced by Mayor Chappell, and it has been most favorably received. The city will be divided into sections; the general divisions will be subdivided, and it may be that in the end the organization will be so complete that there will be committees for each block, to supervise the work and see that all premises are thoroughly cleaned. The city forces will, of course, co-operate fully, but most of the work will be done through private initiative.

The meeting tomorrow afternoon will be addressed by A. V. Wood, president of the board of health of Brunswick, who has made a close study of sanitary conditions and how to promote them. Incidentally Mr. Wood will give some expert advice on how to most effectively swat the mosquito.

Columbus, Ga., March 24.—(Special.) The Hotel Springer is to be enlarged by the addition of fifty rooms. The addition to the hotel will have steam heat, electric lights and all modern conveniences.

Old-Fashioned Fair Planned.

Columbus, Ga., March 24.—(Special.) An old-fashioned fair is proposed for next fall in Columbus, and the details are now receiving attention. It is proposed to feature strongly agricultural products of west Georgia and east Alabama, and also provide features of amusement, including aviation stunts. It has already been decided to have a merchants' week here this fall, the Chattahoochee valley merchants holding a convention, as they did last year. A corn show will be another project. The present idea is to unite these various meetings and conventions, so that they will be features of the proposed fair. It has been some years since an old-fashioned exposition of that character was held here.

Booster Banquet Arranged.

Columbus, Ga., March 24.—(Special.) The Columbus board of trade is arranging to give a banquet at an early date in May. It will be a booster occasion, and an interesting program will be arranged. An invitation has been extended to President W. W. Finley, of the Southern railway, to attend and deliver an address.

LAWRENCE STRIKE IS DECLARED OFF

Strike Brought in Its Train Increased Pay for 275,000 Operatives.

Boston, Mass., March 24.—The great Lawrence strike, which brought in it strain increased wages for 275,000 textile workers in New England, was officially declared off at all the mills in Lawrence today, having accomplished its purpose in the opinion of the leaders.

In this connection it is geenrally believed too that advances in wages or reduction in hours to papermill employees, bagging and burlap workers, machinists and operatives in other industries are all traceable directly or indirectly to the movement which had its origin in Lawrence. The total number of persons thus to benefit is considerably upward of 300,000.

Advances in the price of woolen and cotton goods which have been made or which are in prospect, will probably place upon the ultimate consumer much of the burden of the additional cost to the textile manufacturers. This will aggregate between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 during the next year, it is estimated. Mill agents in announcing the advance in prices have frankly said that the upward trend is the result of wage increases.

The rise in the price of cotton goods, announced up to today is comparatively small, a fraction of a cent a yard in most cases, but selling agents predict that the net advance to the retailer may ultimately reach two cents a yard. Some increased prices also have been quoted on woolen goods, and dealers freely predict higher prices for next season.

New Bedford, where the manufacturers of the finer grades of cotton goods have refused to accede to the demands of their employees for an additional 5 per cent, has displaced Lawrence as the center of interest in the textile situation. Unless the mill owners give the increase demanded, within a few days, it is feared a strike of from 25,000 to 30,000 operatives will follow. While an increase of 5 per cent has been offered, the New Bedford operatives are insistent that they receive 10 per cent. Secretary Devoll, of the manufacturers' association, has promised them that the mill owners will decide early in the week whether this will be granted. The suggestion has been made that an immediate increase of 7½ per cent be given with a promise of an additional 2½ per cent, on a given date. This may be the basis of a compromise.

ANNUAL COOKING SCHOOL BEGINS

First Session at the Old Capital City Club This Morning at 10:30 O'Clock.

The annual cooking school given for the benefit of the Home for the Incurables will open this morning, at 10:30 o'clock, in the old Capital City Club building. Mrs. Strong, who conducted the school last year, will be in charge this year. Her first lesson will be on the proper food for children.

The school will continue for one week, and each morning Mrs. Strong will have a new and interesting subject. Especial attention is directed to the subject for this morning. One prominent Atlanta physician declared that he wished every woman in Atlanta could be present.

On Monday and Tuesday morning the candy table at the clubhouse will be in charge of the Debutante Club.

The attendance last year was about 1,000, and the ladies who have charge of the arrangements hope that it will be equally as successful this year.

WOODALL RUNS FOR SOLICITOR

Will Make Race for the Place Now Held by Hugh Dorsey.

James L. Woodall, a well-known Atlanta attorney, announces his candidacy for the position of solicitor general of the Atlanta circuit, subject to the August primary.

Mr. Woodall enjoys a wide acquaintance throughout the county, having risen from the ranks. He was connected with the Armour Fertilizer Works for a number of years, and his intimate contact with industrial conditions and his personal knowledge of the actual needs of labor, as represented to him by delegations from various organizations, resulted in his announcement.

Mr. Woodall also taught school for several terms and equipped himself for the practice of his profession while earning a livelihood as teacher.

He is connected with the law firm of Scott & Davis, in Temple Court, and has made a successful specialty of criminal cases, writing his announcement for office immediately after emerging from the courthouse after his successful defense of the case of the State of Georgia v. Sam Johnson, charged with burglary, in which he succeeded in clearing the defendant, after a brilliant defense, last week.

Entries to date for the position of solicitor general include three able and popular young attorneys, practicing at the Atlanta bar, Messrs. Carl Hutcheson, Madison Bell and James L. Woodall.

The present incumbent, Hugh M. Dorsey, it is understood, will ask an indorsement at the polls, and will precipitate an active campaign after the presidential primary is out of the way.

The announcement of Mr. Woodall is as follows:

"To the Public—I will be in the race for solicitor general of the Atlanta circuit at the primary election, to be held in Fulton county in the month of August, 1912, and will at the proper time furnish my platform in detail.

"In the meantime, and until the approaching primary for the nomination of county officers has been held, I will not undertake to burden the people with a campaign for my nomination, but when the proper time arrives, I will do my best to convince the voters of Fulton county that I am entitled to their support.

"JAMES L. WOODALL."

BEST DENTAL WORK AT MODERATE PRICES

There is no need, these days, to pay exorbitant prices for really high-quality dental work, or to risk one's teeth and health to incompetent dentists on account of their low prices. The Atlanta Dental Parlors, corner Peachtree and Decatur streets, entrance 10½ Peachtree, are doing the very best dental work at prices low enough to suit the most modest purse.

SPECTACULAR LEAP FROM BRIDGE TO DEATH

New York, March 24.—An unidentified man made a spectacular leap to his death from the Manhattan bridge into the East river this afternoon. He took the 150-foot drop with his hands held tightly to his sides, striking the water feet first. The body appeared twice, and then sank from sight. At a late hour it had not been recovered.

BOYS' MEETING HELD AT WESLEY MEMORIAL

The boys' meeting at the Wesley Memorial church last night under the auspices of the Wesley Memorial Athletic Club was a great success, not merely from a point of numbers, but also because a large sum was raised to carry on the work this summer.

Superintendent George C. Dorr is planning the most extensive summer campaign the club ever had, and it is certain to do more good than ever before. Other speakers were Asa G. Candler, J. T. Rose and City Probation Officer J. M. Gloer, and among the boy speakers were Sam Swilling, Cooledge Newcomer, Victor Drebis, Saul Meltzer, Coburn Southall, Gordon Freeman, L. C. Forbes, Ray Love and others. A boy choir of 150 voices was an attractive feature of the program.

COMMITTEE WEEK AT CITY HALL

Several Matters of Importance Will Be Acted Upon.

This is committee week at the city hall and there will be several meetings of the various council committees.

The finance committee will consider resolutions calling for the following appropriations: For new animals for the Grant park zoo, $1,500; for concerts at Grant park, $1,500; for additional arc lights in Grant park, $300. These resolutions were introduced in council by Councilmen Thomson and Hall, and the money is to be taken from the $5,000 which was appropriated to pay the expenses of investigating before the railroad commission the rates for electric light and power, the money being no longer needed for that purpose.

The ordinance committee will meet Tuesday afternoon and among other matters will take up an ordinance by Councilman Haverty, which requires all kinds of vehicles on the streets at night to carry red-tail lights. Automobiles already have tail lights, and it is the purpose of the ordinance to require other vehicles to carry them to prevent accidents.

There will be a meeting of a special committee appointed to report on the feasibility of the city holding a bond election for a new crematory, for park development, and for street improvements. If this committee makes a favorable report, council will adopt a resolution asking the legislature to amend the city's charter so such a bond election can be held. The committee will decide upon the amount of bonds to be asked for.

The board of health will meet Friday afternoon and will hear a report from a special committee appointed to consider a petition from a number of ladies asking that there be established in Atlanta either a central market or four markets in different sections of the city. If the committee makes a favorable report, the board of health will probably recommend to council that such market or markets be established.

Council will meet next Monday afternoon.

COAL SITUATION NEARING CRISIS

Whether 450,000 Miners Will Strike Likely to Be Determined This Week.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 24.—A crisis in the coal situation, determining whether more than 450,000 miners in the bituminous and anthracite fields shall strike on April 1 or suspend until new wage agreements can be effected, is expected this week.

Members of the executive board and policy committee of the United Mine Workers of America began to arrive here today to prepare to draw up recommendations for a referendum vote by the union. They will not act, however, until the operators and miners of the bituminous fields of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, at their session here Tuesday, have decided whether they can agree on a two-year wage scale.

John P. White, preisdent of the union, and the district presidents today considered a proposal that the bituminous miners drop all their demands except that for an increase in pay and that they ask for 5 per cent instead of ten. The compromise was not definitely agreed upon, but it was considered as a possibility in view of the emphatic stand taken by the operators that they were not inclined to yield. It was proposed that the single suggestion for a 5 per cent increase be considered by both sides before it was taken into conference. Even if thi splan was agreed upon, it was declared, it still would have to be adopted by the policy committee, and then supported by a referendum vote.

The union officials are in doubt whether such a compromise would be approved at the referendum vote, since the full convention at Indianapolis several months ago expressly stood, not only for a ten per cent increase, but for many changes in condition, such as a reduction of eight hours a week in the working time. A five per cent increase, they say, would give them less than one-fourth of what they asked for.

The union officials say an agreeable adjustment of the bituminous dispute would have much influence in securing for the 175,000 anthracite miners a settlement of their differences.

The anthracite situation now stands, members of the policy committee assert, they have only one thing to report to the union, that the operators and miners have failed to agree, and there is no scale upon which operations may be continued after the end of this month.

GOD'S WARNING IN FLOOD, SAY AUGUSTA PASTORS

Augusta, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—From practically every pulpit in Augusta today church congregations heard at least one sermon preached at the city of Augusta in insistence of immediate arrangements for protection against future floods. The general trend of the sermons was that the flooding of Augusta was "a warning of God to His people."

"Let Augusta hang her head in shame," said Dr. Sevier, "if she fails in this duty so clearly pointed out to her."

Particularly forceful sermons were preached along the same line by Rev. M. Ashby Jones and Rev. Howard T. Cree.

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

LL 7

Thousands of women who have used this valuable, specific, female remedy and tonic, have, by its help, been restored to perfect health.

Read this letter from Mrs. S. A. Webb, P. O. Box 1623, Dallas, Texas. She writes: "I was in bed 8 months, suffering, no one can know, except those who have been there. I had a pain in my side, back and head, and could hardly stand to be turned over in bed. I had no appetite, and what I ate would not stay on my stomach.

Our family physician advised that I had appendicitis and, afterwards, said I had ovarian troubles, and, at last, said I would never see another well day, until I was operated on.

I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of Wine of Cardui, which I did. After taking 3 doses of Cardui, I was relieved and could sit up, and after one week all pain and soreness was gone. I have since taken 6 bottles of Cardui, together with Black-Draught, and am as well as ever.

I would advise any sisters, who are suffering from female troubles, to try a bottle of Cardui, before they go too far."

FESTIVAL CHORUS CONCERT TO BE GIVEN TUESDAY NIGHT

Tickets go on sale today at the Auditorium box office and the sale will continue throughout tomorrow for the big music festival concert which will be given at the Auditorium tomorrow night, and in which more than 300 voices, comprising the Atlanta Music Festival chorus, will participate.

Training of these voices has gone on persistently and steadily and they include many of the best-known singers in Atlanta. They have been trained by Dr. Percival J. Starnes, organist of the Atlanta Music Festival Association, which is a guarantee that the work has been well done. Charles R. Sheldon will preside at the big organ, while Dr. Starnes will lead the chorus in all of its numbers.

A bright feature of the occasion will be the solos rendered by Miss Florence Hinkle, noted dramatic soprano, who has been specially secured by the association for this concert. Miss Hinkle has visited Atlanta before, and those who have heard her are well prepared to testify to the attractive sweetness of her voice.

interpreter of my country and my people such as she has never had, and in my humble way I have faith that God wants me to interpret my people in order that the consummation of those treaties of peace between England and America, the greatest countries in the world, and destined to master the globe, may be the sooner seen.

Wants Love of London.

"One thing that I fear greatly in going to London is that I may not get the love from my congregation that I got here, and without which I cannot do my work. I was asked once the reason for the failure of so many good, true men in the ministry, and I replied, 'the lack of support from their churches.'

"In leaving you, I shall miss more than it is possible for me to say; the fellowship, the love, the communion that have been between us. I pray for the success and continued growth of all the institutions of this Baptist Tabernacle.

"You have heard the crown of compliments than has been put upon me by these speakers tonight. This meeting I feel would be a failure if I did not turn that chaplet into a crown of confession, of the Christian life and Jesus, on the part of those of this audience who wish to know and walk with Him."

Heads Bowed in Prayer.

He asked then that all heads be bowed in prayer for those who stood to signify their intention of becoming Christians. Many hands were raised, also, to show the turning of the hearts of the owners toward Jesus.

"Those upraised hands are worth more than all the compliments," cried Dr. Broughton. "But you are entering a fight, men and women—a fight for Christ. Christianity is a fight."

Seventy persons expressed a desire to lead a Christian life at the morning service.

S. C. Callaway, chairman of the board of deacons, was master of ceremonies Sunday night, and introduced briefly the speakers of the evening, who were seated on the platform. All talks were limited to a brief space of time, and in them many salient facts in the ministry of Dr. Broughton were brought out, and tributes paid to his splendid leadership, and consistent following of his vision, withstanding all enmity toward him, and the fact that there were those in Atlanta who would burn him in effigy.

Farewell Addresses.

In substance, these farewell speeches were as follows:

Marion M. Jackson:

"Dr. Broughton is the greatest force for good the city of Atlanta and the state of Georgia have seen in the past generation. Nothing just like him has been known here before. His work will continue."

John J. Eagan:

"In the Atlanta Bible Conference—outgrowth of that Tabernacle Bible Conference of which Dr. Broughton was the animating force—the new organization, designed to continue his work, will be imbued with his spirit as with a live thing."

Rev. M. J. Cofer:

"God sends men to do his work now as well as in the days of Moses. England is today in the throes of great trouble, and many of her people are destitute. It is a great call that has come to Dr. Broughton. If he had never done anything but provide a home for the working girls of Atlanta, he would deserve the highest praise we can offer."

Dr. J. C. Solomon, president Cox College:

"We are sending a man to England to wake people up. Carthage had its Hannibal, Rome its Caesar, Athens its Demosthenes, London its Spurgeon, and Atlanta its Broughton."

John Temple Graves, editor:

"No matter where he works, the world hears of him and knows what he is doing. He is a 'plus' man, adding to whatever he touches. If it is a compliment to Broughton to be called to London, it is no less a compliment to London to say that she has called Broughton."

Denominational Lines Wiped Out.

Dr. A. R. Hatcher:

"Denominational lines are wiped out tonight as we gather to do honor, and bid farewell to Dr. Broughton. He is a great personal loss, for he has been an inspiration to me."

Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, supply pastor of the church:

"I should not be here now had it not been for a personal message from Broughton, coming to me in London with the cable from the board of deacons, calling me to this pulpit. He is an immortal man in Atlanta."

Dr. John E. White:

"He has gone from the countryside of Wake county, North Carolina, to the pulpit of Roland Hill, in London. While in Atlanta he has stimulated every minister who had anything in him to stimulate."

Rev. W. B. Riley, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"I share in the sorrow of his departure, but also I joy in the gladness of it. He goes to a glorious work. It has been a comfort to me to know all these years that he was working down here in Georgia, and to experience the fellowship that was between us."

Rev. C. W. Daniel:

"Our companionship has been a blessing on my life. The same spirit that led him to Atlanta was the spirit of God that is taking him from us to London. What is needed today, we are realizing, for the salvation of humankind, is not a scheme, but a man."

Messages of Regret.

Rev. J. W. Ham, assistant pastor of the Tabernacle, spoke in behalf of the forty heads of departments of the church's institutions. He read also a number of telegrams received Sunday, expressive of sorrow at Dr. Broughton's departure from the state. Among others were messages from E. C. Dargan, of Macon; Russell H. Conwell, Millard A. Jenkins, Dr. J. C. Massey, Chattanooga; William Louis Poteat, president Wake Forest college, Wake Forest, N. C., Dr. Broughton's alma mater; E. L. Mullins, president S. B. T. S., Louisville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. James H. Anderson, who gave $5,000 toward the building of the Tabernacle; James R. Gray, Rev. J. L. White, Memphis, and many others.

Mr. Ham spoke then of what his association with Dr. Broughton had meant to him.

On behalf of the congregation of the church, E. A. Etheridge, representing that body, presented Dr. Broughton with a magnificent service of solid silver, saying simply, "As a token of our never-ending love."

The present year marked the fifteenth of Dr. Broughton's ministry to the Tabernacle congregation, during which time the present building and the institutional features of the church were built.

He leaves Atlanta today from the ... station at 1 o'clock for North Carolina, where he will visit his people, ... sailing on April 2 on board the Adriatic, from New York, for London, where he will assume the pastorate of Christ church.

SHOWS INTEREST IN NEWLY WEDS

Mrs. Grace in Buoyant Spirits on Her Return to Atlanta.

Spends Most of Time During the Trip Here From Washington in Examination of Letters and Papers Having Bearing on Case.

By Britt Craig.

During her rapid trip to Atlanta on board the New York, Atlanta and New Orleans Limited Southern train, Sunday, Mrs. Daisy Grace devoted her time to looking over letters and papers which had a bearing on her case. She arrived in this city fatigued and almost completely worn out, suffering a near collapse in the Terminal station.

She showed great interest in two young newlyweds on the train, who were taking their honeymoon south. She watched them closely, even dropping affairs of great importance and commented upon their conduct.

Once, while the couple were holding hands, she—in the fond belief that they were unobserved—remarked that she sincerely hoped their domestic life would be more tranquil than the career of others whom she knew.

Bears Up Under Strain.

Mrs. Grace showed no signs of fatigue from her trip until the Terminal station was reached. Then she asked for the support of her attorney, saying her knees were beginning to weaken from fear of the curious crowd which lined the walkway from the front of the engine pulling the train to the observation platform on the rear.

Friday night she boarded train No. 37 in Washington at 10:30 o'clock and immediately repaired to her private berth.

"I'll sleep tonight," she said with a show of spirit, as she removed her wraps, "because I know I am going to Atlanta and face those who have accused me of attempting to escape It will do me good. They have done me a great injustice."

With these words, she retired, and nothing was heard from her until 9 o'clock when she was awakened at Charlotte.

Load Lifted From Her Mind.

That some great load had been lifted from her mind, was apparent from her buoyant spirit on the erturn trip. All during the time she was en route to Philadelphia she seemed depressed. But Friday and Saturday she was exuberant.

Mrs. Grace is happy to return to Atlanta. Just as the train was entering the Inman yards, and she glimpsed at the flickering street lamps of the outlying districts, she talked enthusiastically to the party which had accompanied her on her trip.

"Oh, how I love the south!" she exclaimed with a slight show of emotion. "It's the best place in the world. Philadelphia may be big, and it may offer more than Atlanta, but when it comes to hospitality and big-heartedness, give me Atlanta and southern people. You can't compare others with them. I'm glad I am to make my home here, and gladder that my little boy probably will come down and share my happiness."

Believes Husband Better.

When notified that her wounded husband had been removed to his home in Newnan, Mrs. Grace expressed herself as very happy.

"That is a sign he is getting well; don't you think?" she said. "And the quicker he recovers, the happier I will be. I was always satisfied that he would recover, and on the strength of that I have been able to stand the tortures I have undergone. Believe me, when I come to trial, he will walk into the room unsupported, because he isn't half as sick as he is alleged to be."

Following a hearty breakfast in the dining car, Mrs. Grace had a secretary's table placed in her berth. Then from her suit case she drew a large blue packet, marked "Girard Trust Co., Philadelphia," and on the table placed its contents, numerous letters and personal papers.

Beginning at the top of the pile, she read and re-read the letters, smiling at times. The examination was not completed until she reached Gainesville, Ga. There she began preparations for her arrival in Atlanta.

The letters and personal papers were taken from her trunks in her mother's home at 900 West Sixtieth street, Philadelphia. She spent the entire afternoon of Thursday ransacking her trunks and effects in her mother's home, securing all the letters and other valuables.

A Remarkable Happening.

(From Judge's Library.)

An elderly gentleman of rural appearance had hardly seated himself in the crosstown street car when a young lady who had followed him in approached him.

"Sir, did you lose a five-dollar bill?" she asked.

For a moment the farmer observed her with a surprised, curious look, then said convincingly, "Yes, ma'am, I did."

"Then here it is," said she, handing the bill to him. "I picked it up behind you from the car floor."

"Thank ye very much, young lady, for your honesty. This is a most remarkable happening!"

"Oh, I don't think so, sir! I believe every one should return the money in such a case as this. What is there so remarkable about it?"

"Why, I lost my five-dollar bill two years ago!"

CLAIMANT TO SPANISH THRONE PASSES AWAY IN MACON HOME

Macon, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—And another throne goes by "default." Had John S. de Montmollin lived, who knows but that some day he might have headed an invading army and wrested King Alfonso's none too solidly built throne from under him? At his death here yesterday he had in his possession documents to show that he was the rightful heir to the throne of Spain, and they were of such a convincing character that it is said no less a personage than the head of the Cambridge university, England, once went so far as to offer to head a movement to equip a war party to invade Spain and seat the American pretender on the throne.

Mr. de Montmollin claimed that he should have become king when Alfonso XII., father of the present monarch, began his reign. He had an extensive correspondence with Spanish officials relative to his claim, and among the communications were several from King Alfonso XIII. During the Spanish-American war Mr. de Montmollin received an offer of a big sum of money from Weyler, famous as "the butcher," to head a filibustering expedition from Cuba; but he refused to consider the offer. He did so because he thought Weyler wished to get him in his power and put him out of the way because of his claim on the throne.

For several years Mr. de Montmollin had lived in a houseboat on the Ocmulgee river. He was for several years employed by the Macon Navigation Company as marine engineer. He was 76 years of age, and was born in Savannah, and fought throughout the civil war.

SAMPLE JUMPS OUT OF WINDOW

Falls From Fourth Story and Is Only Slightly Hurt.

Believing himself pursued by foes, Carl Sample, a youth of 20 years, leaped from a window on the fourth floor of the Cannon hotel, corner Alabama and Pryor streets, at 6 o'clock Sunday morning and sustained a slight fracture of the left leg in landing on the railroad tracks thirty feet below.

Sample was hastened to the Grady hospital. He knew nothing of his drop through space when he awakened in the surgical ward some hours afterwards.

"Take 'em away from me. They're trying to kill me," the youth exclaimed as he made a dash through the corridors at the Cannon hotel. With a scream he leaped through the window. When the clerk reached the spot under the window he was horrified. Sample was lying on the railroad tracks dead, to all appearances.

The surgeons at the hospital stated that they were certain that Sample was under the influence of liquor or some drug, and suggested that the police return to the hotel and make a search of the room. On the floor near the bed in which Sample slept a part of the night a phial marked "cocaine" was found, say the detectives.

Sample lives with his relatives in Ormewood Park. He is a laborer. He was sent to the hospital by Officer Sells.

OFFICER THORNTON WRENCHES HIS FOOT

It will be a week or ten days before E. C. Thornton, the stalwart traffic policeman at Five Points, is able to get back on the job, according to reports from the Grady hospital late Sunday night. Thornton fell and wrenched his right foot while testing the doors in front of the place of Sig Samuels on Decatur near Peachtree street, a short time after 7 o'clock Sunday night. He was removed to his home, 222 Lee street, later in the night.

Put a Bullet Through Head.

Nashville, Tenn., March 24.—A dispatch from Lebanon announces that Harry Kirkpatrick, aged 45, killed himself with a revolver shot through his head this morning at his country home near Lebanon. He had been prominently connected with a large tobacco company, but for sometime had been suffering with neurasthenia and was unable to attend to business.

BATTLE LASTED FOR THREE DAYS

The Mexican Rebels Claim Victory in Bloody Engagement.

Many Are Reported Dead on Both Sides--Federal Minister of War Is Reported Among the Wounded—The Battle Occurred Near Escalon.

Jiminez, Mexico, March 24.—The rebels, after three days of fighting, claim victory today. There are many dead on both sides. General Gonzales Salas, the federal leader and Mexican minister of war, is among the wounded. He resigned his portfolio to take the field.

Sixty federal dead were accounted for when the insurgents loaded a light engine with forty boxes of dynamite and sent it headlong into an oncoming armored train loaded with federal soldiers. During the fighting around Escalon Friday and Saturday the rebels captured two rapid-fire guns. Last night General Campa fell back to the town of Corralites, which is a few miles south of this city. The former is built on an eminence and more easily defended than Escalon. The federals entered Escalon today 2,000 strong, loaded on three freight trains and preceded by an armored train of three cars, began to follow up the retreating rebels.

At Terrific Speed.

Campa secured a light engine and an engineer who agreed to accept the hazardous task of starting it after it had been loaded with the explosive. He ran it until a down grade was reached and then opening the throttle he jumped. The wild locomotive tore down the track at terrific speed.

The engineer of the armored train saw his danger and stopped, but could not escape the on-rushing menace. The latter telescoped the engine and first car of the federal train and derailed the last two cars. At the same instant the dynamite exploded.

General Campa justifies this method by declaring that in yesterday's fighting the federals set fire to sage brush, burning to death both their own and rebel wounded.

In Rear of Federals.

General Campa says that his force numbers 4,000 men and that the federal column is but 2,000. When the armored train was destroyed the main body of government troops in the three trains detrained and prepared to defend themselves.

Meanwhile General Campa had sent a strong detachment on a detour to get in their rear and destroy the railroad behind them. It was reported tonight that this maneuver was successful and that tomorrow the federals will find themselves hemmed in by a superior force.

In the fighting of the last three days the rebels have captured thirty prisoners, six of them wounded, and an officer; captured two rapid-firers and claim to have killed about one hundred of the enemy.

Shot With a Knife.

Years ago in a stock performance of a famous old melodrama, the villain, Charles Wolcott, suddenly discovered that he had left his revolver in the dressing room. In much confusion, he fumbled in his pocket and found a penknife, which, he figured, would do just as well for the bloody deed. Imagine his consternation when, after plunging the blade into the hero's breast, that player failed to change his lines and screamed at the top of his voice: "Heaven forgive you! I'm shot."

Fate.

There once was a girl named Maloney,
Who swore that her blood was pure Spanish.
"The man that I wed
Must be Scottish," she said.
(She eloped with a fellow named Cohen.)

DAYS OF '86 RECALLED CRACKERS PLAY YANKS

Edited by DICK JEMISON

Whiffs

He Could Make It.

ARLIE BRITTON, the big pitcher-outfielder of the Crackers, ought to quit the pitching end of the game without question. Without trying to use a hammer, Britton is not a pitcher. That is certain. It is only occasionally that the big fellow turns loose a good game, but as a batter he is as good as most any of them in this league. It behooves him to quit trying to be a pitcher and devote all his time to outfield practice. With his natural hitting ability, he could easily be taught to field. A hitter like Britton is too valuable a man to have sitting on the bench four games out of five.

Look Like Hitters.

THE CRACKERS have all the earmarks of a team of hitters this season, something that Atlanta teams in the past have sorely lacked. They are not individual hitters, what we mean by that being that the team does not carry just one or two good hitters, but on their showing to date they size up as a bunch who, when they get to pounding a pitcher, never know when [illegible] right down through the pitcher in order.

Is a Good Asset.

CHARLEY HEMPHILL has the happy faculty of having his players for him right from the jump. "This fellow deserves a winner," said one of the Atlanta players recently. "He's a grand fellow personally, and a great fellow to work for and here's one man that is going to give him the best he has in shop at all times." If Hemphill has all his men talking that way he has won half the battle already.

The Shortstop Job.

HOWARD WOLFE has edged in on that shortfield berth of the Crackers, and it is going to take some mighty stout hustling on the part of O'Brien and Howard to grab the berth away from him. He is deadly on a ground ball, covers worlds of ground, has as good a whip as any shortstop ever seen here, and what's more, he's a corking good batter. He seems destined to do what was considered impossible, break in from semi-professional ball with a class A club and grab of a regular berth right at the start.

Quits Game.

WOODIE THORNTON, a former member of the Mobile Club, but manager of the Cotton States League in 1911, has decided to quit the game this year. This is due to a controversy over the salary question with the Jackson, Miss., club, to whom he was to report. But Woodie's friends are taking his retirement gag with a grain of salt. They do not believe that he has really quit.

Name the Coach.

ARTHUR HOWE, captain and quarterback of the 1911 Yale football team, has been named head coach for the 1912 team by Captain Jesse Spalding. McDevitt and Scully two of the 1911 linesmen, have been named as Howe's assistants.

Awarded Money.

CHARLEY HERZOG, third baseman of the New York Giants, has been allowed $375, half of the draft price paid by the Cincinnati club to the Reading club for Pitcher Horsey. Herzog was allowed the amount, as he had a written agreement with the Reading club that he was to receive half of the draft price for the player in case he was drafted in 1910 or 1911, Herzog having induced Horsey to sign with the Reading club.

He's Eligible.

"I'M SINGLE, and I want you to emphasize that fact," said Marty O'Toole, the $22,500 beauty, to a war correspondent, his face beaming with a good-natured smile. "I want the young ladies to know that I am in the market for a good wife."

Beware Hopes.

JIM JEFFRIES is planning to "come back." That has been said before, but Jim is in earnest this time, and he is going about his come-back stuff in a little different manner from the way they thought he was going to. Jeff intends to take on Morris, Palzer, Stewart and the rest of these hopes first, eliminating them, and then challenge the winner of the Flynn-Johnson fight. Jeffries argues that if he is good enough to put away these "hopes," then he will really know that he can come back for a battle for the title. Pretty sane reasoning, at that.

Got Cold Feet.

LITTLE ROCK fans made a bluff about wanting to get back into the Southern League this season. The Montgomery franchise was offered to them at a price of $20,000. Now the Little Rock moguls seem to think the price was too exorbitant. Nothing but a case of cold feet. That's all.

HOT FROM HOT SPRINGS

By H. W. Lanigan.

Little Rock, Ark., March 24.—(Special).—Bill Killifer, the champion March and April catcher in the game, has made a hit with C. Dooin. He averaged about one hit in three games when working for Colonel Hedges. But Bill has put on some of that needed beef, probably 15 pounds of it, and is also showing better sense than in the old days by favoring his arm in his early throwing. When with the Browns Bill's early pegging was all there was to write about the first week in camp.

Wild Bill Donovan and Hans Lobert never miss the formal dances at the Arlington and Eastman. George Mullin and Sam Crawford also took them in when in Arkansas Hot Springs. Lobert looks like the wealthy son of a wealthy pork packer when togged up in his glad rags. Incidentally, he is ready for the Athletics and the subsequent National League race.

Nap Rucker, the greatest left-hander in the world, stated before departing with the Dahlenites that the Phillies cannot fail to win the National League flag. "The Giants would not have known which way the Quakers went last summer if Dooin had not experienced so much bum luck," states Rucker. Lots of other Smart Alecks also like the Phillies, in fact, the Dooin entry is the hottest on record in the spring betting.

Cy Seymour will probably land with Newark. The old boy labored hard while here; chased some of his extra avoirdupois, but still has plenty of it, and trod the narrow path. Cy deserves success—if he doesn't bust loose.

As clean-cut an athlete as there is in Arkansas Hot Springs is Happy Jack Chesbro, king of the spitters in his day. He opines strongly to the belief that he can come back. Chesbro is practically at weight and as brown as that overworked berry with it. On looks he cannot fail to land a fat job somewhere.

FIVE OF HEMPHILL'S RECRUITS AS SEEN IN ACTION AT PONCE

JIMMY McALEER'S PART IN WINNING CLEVELAND'S ONLY WORLD'S PENNANT

IT'S a far cry from player to major league magnate, but that is the leap James R. McAleer has taken in the last dozen years. In 1895 he was Gentleman Jim" on the rough and ready Cleveland Spiders, one of the formidable clubs of that day. Jimmy McAleer was a brilliant, hustling fielder, probably the fastest outfielder of that decade. He could knock down a bully in the baseball ranks, sprint to the sign board for a hot liner or execute a pennant-winning play with a dash and an enthusiasm that made him a shining success. The same qualities have made him one of the "big eight" in the American league.

Jimmy McAleer.

McAleer starred as one of the bright lights of the 1895 series for the Temple cup and helped bring the only world's pennant to Cleveland in its history. Without the brilliant fielding of McAleer the Orioles would have won the first game of that series. Baltimore in that event probably would have taken the world's championship.

Any club to defeat the Orioles was compelled to play wonderful baseball. Hanlon's great machine had won the National league championship, but in doing so had exhausted its strength as in the previous year, owing to the grueling battle for the league pennant.

The opening scene for the world's pennant struggle was set at Cleveland and the battle fell on Oct. 2. Cy Young, the pitching hero of the series, was rounding out one of the great seasons of his eventful career. He was the slab choice to stop the heavy-hitting brigade from Baltimore.

Although others contributed to Young's support in this important game, without the great catch of McAleer in the sixth inning and his timely bunt in the ninth, the Orioles would have taken this contest and probably the pennant.

It was a struggle of sharp hitting and clever fielding. The Orioles were making their best stand for the Temple cup and that meant they were formidable at every stage. Cleveland led 2 to 1 up to the eighth, but the real crisis had passed in the sixth inning. Baltimore's trio of awful swatsmen came up in that round and the game, as events proved, hinged on the play of McAleer.

John J. McGraw dropped a hit back of third base and Willie Keeler bunted him to second. Hughie Jennings came up in the pinch and a wave of unrest swept over the Cleveland crowd. They had seen this aggressive player "clean up" on so many occasions that they feared for the result. The present leader of the Tigers was having one of his best seasons as a batsman. He had hit near the .400 mark in the National league season. The fears of the crowd were well grounded. The heavy hitting Oriole shortstop met one of Cy Young's curves with a crash that seemed to doom the Spiders to impending disaster.

McAleer divined instantly what was coming. He was away almost with the crack of the hickory. Away back into deep center he sailed with the speed of a deer, pulled down the hit, stopped the rally and saved the game.

The Orioles, battling to the last ditch, tied up the score in the eighth and went ahead in the ninth, but the Spiders scored the winning run in the last half of the ninth, when McAleer bunted, enabling Childs to score from third on Zimmer's infield hit.

Jimmy McAleer made the greatest play of his life when he bought stock in the Boston club, one of the best paying franchises in baseball, but his next best plays were his timely catch and opportune bunt in another decade, which helped place him among the game's greatest stars.

KUBIAK AND WELLS WILL BORE IN FROM TAP OF GONG ON TUESDAY

Jumbo Wells is right on the job and ready for his bout with Al Kubiak on Tuesday evening. The Gate City Athletic Club is the scene of the coming battle, and a gruelling contest from start to finished is the way it now looks.

Al Kubiak has a fierce style of fighting, but Jumbo Wells has a punch of sufficient strength to stop him and put him on the defensive instead of allowing him to do the rushing all the way. In his last bout here Kubiak had Delaney on the run all the way and this allowed him to get away with the mill in rather short order. Delaney did not carry any too good a punch and for this reason was unable to make Kubiak keep his distance. With Wells it will be somewhat different. He has an awful kick and it may be strong enough to keep Big Al at safe range.

At the boring game Kubiak is in a class all by himself and it all depends upon the punch Wells uses as to whether he will chase his man to death and then win. Anyway it is to be an interesting battle.

"Red" Ames and Battling Larry, the two participants in the other main event of the evening, are both the kind that can take an unlimited amount of punishment and still hold to a K. O. blow. Of the two Ryan is probably the greater punch absorber. In his three hundred mills he has taken some blows from the best and always managed to come back with a good wallop. Ames can take a lot of punishment and at the stand-off game is also right there.

Two four-round preliminaries with Spider Britt and Mayer Pricer and Young Sam Langford and Arthur Bridges have been booked and they, too, have all the earmarks of interesting events.

Yanks Battle With Crackers Again Today

The Crackers and Yankees will resume hostilities at Ponce de Leon park this afternoon, and on Tuesday they engage in the final meeting between the two clubs prior to the departure of the Crackers for Albany and the Reds for Cincinnati.

On Wednesday and Thursday the Crackers meet Bernie McCay's Albany club, of the South Atlantic League, in Albany, and on Friday and Saturday they may tackle the Americus semi-pro champs at the latter city.

Wolverton's men break up their training camp Thursday afternoon and early Friday morning will shake the dust, or it should be mud (for it has been raining practically all the time they have been here) of Atlanta off their feet and hie for Cincinnati, where they engage the Redlegs of Hank O'Day's in a series of three games on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Both Managers Hemphill and Wolverton are sure to crowd on extra steam in these last two games. Both will play their hardest to win, and as the result, local fans who attend the games, and it will be the only ones they will have the opportunity of seeing for a week, will see some good games.

In one of the games Manager Wolverton may give his youngsters a chance to see what they can do, in order to be able to get a line on just which men he will turn over to Charley Hemphill for further development. But in the game today both managers will probably use their regular lineups, as follows:

Then on Tuesday the Yankees' boss will probably send the following lineup in against the Crackers, though he may decide to use it today and use the veterans on Tuesday. The batting order is not known.

Zinn, left field; Osborne, center field; Knuff, right field Coleman, third base; Stumpf, shortstop; Simmons, second base; Priest, first base; Appleby, catcher; Shears, Martin and Hoff, pitchers.

If he does send these men into action against the Crackers local fans will have an opportunity of seeing all the promising recruits of the team in action and judge for themselves just which of the players they would like to see the local magnate secure.

Bruffey and O'Day Recall Game That Latter Pitched for Savannah Against Atlanta August 19, 1886

BY EDWARD C. BRUFFEY.

(The Constitution's first sporting editor and one of the first sporting editors in the south.)

"Gee, but that was some ball playing, wasn't it? Two runs against a shutout and no hits to five hits—one error. Let's see. Atlanta made one and our team—the Savannahs—made three. But say, where did you get that score book? That game was played right here in Atlanta 'way back in 1886. Gosh! Thursday, August 19, '86. Sure! Well, I'll be jiggered! Say, how did you locate Noah's ark, anyhow? The old sailor only took in two of a kind and I'd like to get the mate to that old box score that escaped a watery grave."

Hank O'Day, Savannah's pitcher in that history-making game of baseball, a game watched closely by Governor McDaniel, the late Captain E. P. Howell, the late Henry W. Grady, patron saint of sports in the south; the mayors of Savannah, Macon, Augusta, Charleston, Memphis, Nashville, to say nothing of United States Senator Bob Taylor, the fiddling governor of the Volunteer State, and other characters in American history, was reading the box score of that great game in which he appeared for the last time in the south as a hurler.

Double Play From Field.

"Just like I told you," resumed the new manager of the Reds. "Look at that, won't you? Moriarity in right to Field on first. Double play. Double plays from outfield to the ins don't happen so often today. And yet they say that the ball players of those days aren't in it with these high-priced highbrows who study Greek and Latin to learn how to play something that came natural to us of twenty-five years ago."

"I'm not knocking education, schools and school learning," went on the old Southern League star. "It's a mighty good thing to have if you've got the money to spend. But I want to tell you some of the very best ball players I ever met had to complete their contracts by making a mark because they couldn't write their own name. Take Pete Hotaling, who was in our outfield that year. Pete was a mighty good Irishman. There were none better. Pete knew green, because that color shows every St. Patrick's day. His old mother, and not a school teacher, had drilled that into Pete. He knew baseball because he came to the game naturally and not through a college team. God bless old Pete's good heart, he wouldn't have recognized a college had one been pointed out to him. But a blacksmith shop, a brick kiln or a baseball field couldn't have been hidden from him within a hundred miles.

Old Timers Good.

"And yet they try to tell the readers of newspapers and the patrons of the game today that the players now drawing fancy salaries have forgotten more about the national game than their predecessors of the '80's and the early '90's ever knew.

"'Yah! Yah!' as Miller, our only Dutchman on the team, used to say. Study that score a minute and then take up one of the world series scores between McGraw and Connie. Find a game there with as few hits.

"A hundred minutes was a quick shift, too. Not many games are now pulled off in an hour and forty minutes. Why say, a glance only at that score shows that the game was full of pep and life—that there was no drag—that there was something doing every minute.

"There was a big crowd. It was a raw, rank crowd, too; and every spectator, except that select crowd from Savannah and the Macon congress, was pulling and yelling all the time for Atlanta.

"I remember yet telling Tug Arundle and Pete that if our people in Savannah backed us up like Atlanta backed Old Blondy and his hired men, we could and would beat the world. I see that score says Gillen caught me that day. I thought it was Tug. That same Tug, though, was some catcher, I want to tell you. So was Gillen.

"But, just the same, all Atlanta robbed us that day. McQuaid was the regular umpire—see the score—and everybody in Atlanta, except the Savannah crowd and that Macon bunch, which wanted Atlanta whipped and walloped, expected him to work. But, you uglies— Say, that recalls it all. Do you forget that your Atlanta team was called all over the league Purcell's Plug Uglies? Good Lord, I had forgotten that. Yes, 'Plug Uglies'—'Purcell's Plug Uglies.' And it was a mighty good name. It fitted like your sliding secretary's wearing apparel fitted him," and the ex-pitcher and ex-umpire laughed a happy laugh.

Secretary Their Lawyer.

"And that sliding secretary. When have I thought of that event before? Let's see, his name was Ryan, and he was a big banker and—Brown? That's right. His name was Brown. He was a lawyer? Sure, he was. I remember how he was a lawyer, 'cause he appeared for us in police court next day when we were pulled up for trial. Oh, that was a dirty trick, sure. And yet no one enjoyed it more than we did, except President Haas, of the Savannah team.

"Somehow, that man—Haas—liberal as he was, could never take a joke, not even when your police court judge asked us all to contribute five and cost each. Say, do you know President Haas couldn't see the joke even when he handed over to the judge five seventy-five for each of our fifteen players. Even if we had been sent to your workhouse, I don't believe President Haas would have appreciated the joke. Whose pocket? Why, it came out of President Haas' pocket, of course; and that may have been the reason he didn't laugh like your sliding Secretary Brown—Wally Brown? That's it. That was his name. Say, do you know I framed the bill he sent me for professional services at that trial? How? I believe the bill, frame and glass were all burned when my Euclid avenue mansion was burned. Anyhow, if it didn't burn, it should have.

"But, the game? We played only six innings. The clouds were heavy and black, and, after Atlanta had had her seventh inning, and before we could do anything, Gunson, one of Atlanta's catchers, who was umpiring, called the game, saying it was raining; and yet I don't think there was an umbrella on the grounds. I recall distinctly that the afternoon was an ideal one for a baseball game. Atlanta had put two men around the paths in her half, but, as Gunson wouldn't let us try what we could do in our part of the seventh, those two runs weren't counted, and the game went back to the sixth, leaving Atlanta the self-asserted winner by a two-to-nothing score.

Umpire Chased.

"Of course, Atlanta—Walter Ryan and Steve Brown were the officers of the club—drove McQuaid out of town. McQuaid told me so; but when my Euclid avenue mansion burned, with all my gilded balls, my old uniforms and my phonographs, in which were registered all my official utterances, all my baseball souvenirs were lost.

"The most precious paper I had in the bunch was a written confession from your sliding secretary, Steve Brown, in which he graphically told me that his conscience was bothering him, and that his steady clairvoyant had advised him that he would never have peace of mind again until he confessed that he and Wally Ryan had paid McQuaid a handsome sum to skip.

"'Twas I,' he said in that letter to me—I'd give a dollar for it now—'who made McQuaid leave town. We wanted that game, and we knew McQuaid was honest and brave and fearless. Simply to ease my conscience, Mr. O'Day, I write you this letter, and I hope you will forgive me.'

"Now, what do you think o' that? 'Course I forgave him right off the handle. Still, he never told me he had sent that five seventy-five twelve times over to St. Patrick's friend in Savannah, Mr. Haas, I mean."

Gunson Highwayman.

"Gunson? Say, he was a clever fellow, as well as a good ball player, but a sorry umpire. Gunson ought to have met Express Messenger Trousdale, who gave a quick '30' to a couple of train robbers out in Texas a few days ago. Nothing short of a Trousdale could have stopped Gunson that day.

"When he was born there was written about his star that he should do one highway act in life, and that he should do it well. Gunson's star must have been satisfied when the sun went down on the evening of Thursday, March 19, 1886.

"Say, how an old thing makes a man young again! Purcell got the first hit that day, and as a rule Blondy never failed to get a smote. I now recall that when Blondy came to bat, he always led off, someone in the hot sun seats yelled out:

"'Now, Blondy, old boy, give 'em the razzle-dazzle!'

"It was the first time I had ever heard that expression, and I was guessing what razzle-dazzle meant. I quickly learned. That great hippodromer lined one out to the fence for four bases and Atlanta's first run. Gosh, but that crowd went wild!

"Just then the much-discussed recall and referendum had its birth, for all Georgia was a unit in recalling good old Blondy from the ball field and sending him on to the white house in Washington for life. One inning when we were at bat I went to the water bucket for a dipper full. Gunson, came up, and, turning to me, said:

"You're a Liar!"

"'Guess you'll say I've robbed you?'

"'Sure, you are robbing us,' I replied.

"'You're a liar!' called back Gunson.

"Then, giving me the finger to the nose touch, he walked back to continue his Robin Hood act. We had both talked loud enough for everybody on that side to hear us. But nobody heard the pleasant, good-natured kidding that followed when I came to bat. It was simply a stall. Gunson wanted Atlanta to think he'd die for the town, and I was willing to help him keep that think up. But, say, study that score and then tell me have the ball players of today got it all over us of that time?

"Give me that old Atlanta team or the one Savannah had and I'll make Muggsy McGraw, Connie Mack and Hughie Jennings and the rest of these so-called leaders wonder who we are."

That memorable, history-making Atlanta-Savannah game was called in the sixth inning after Atlanta had added two runs to two she had made in the fifth, making the score really 4 to 0. But as Savannah did not have a chance at her half of the seventh the score reverted and Atlanta was awarded in the standing a 2 to 0 victory.

The Game.

Shaffer, known as Cannon Ball, did not give up a hit in the seven innings, while O'Day's left-hand mysteries were solved five times. Pursell, Cline, Lyons, Stricker and Williams got one each. Mappes, catcher, got Atlanta in the error column one time, while Sutcliff in left, Miller at short and Gillen behind the bat, each got in the error column for the Savannah team.

Two double plays figured in the game. Lyons at third to Lynch at first doing the work for Atlanta, while Moriarity in right, and he was playing in deep right an old score book shows, with Field on first, did the act for O'Day's support. Shaffer, besides pitching a hitless game, struck out eight men, and there was a single called strike in the lot of tossing he did. O'Day struck out one Atlantan, and that one was the mighty swatter and patient waiter, Blondy Purcell. Shaffer gave up one wild pitch, while there was a base on balls off each O'Day and Shaffer.

That Atlanta-Savannah game was some game, if any one should ask you about it.

Britton Leads Local Hitters in Four Games

By Dick Jemison.

To Albert Arlington Britton, the hard-hitting pitcher-outfielder, belong the honors of leading the local club with the willow in the four practice games played to date. Though two players have a higher percentage than he, they played in but one game, and therefore Britton is awarded the plum.

Britton has played in the four games and has been at bat fourteen times, tallying five runs and smashing out eight slashing drives for a percentage of .571.

Howard Wolfe the young semi-professional shortstop from Cleveland, who is battling for the regular shortstop berth, is in second place with an average of .385. Pretty good hitting for most any one, but for a youngster hitting against class A and major league pitching it is wonderful.

Al O'Dell also seems to have his batting eye with him this spring. The big outfielder has carrolled six bingles in seventeen chances at the plate for a .352 mark.

The twenty-two men who have participated in the games played to date have nailed a grand team average of .311, which is some clouting, and when it is taken into consideration that in three of the games they batted against some of the best twirlers in the major leagues, it certainly looks like Hemphill has grabbed a hard-hitting club this season.

In the four games the Crackers have tallied thirty runs, as average of seven and a fraction to the game, and made fifty-two hits, an average of twelve and a fraction to the game. No bad hitting, either.

Eliminating the practice game between the "wops" and "hopes," and figuring only on the one game with the Yankees and the two with the Reds, the team carrolled a team batting average of .281 against big league pitching, scoring an average of five runs to the game and making an average of nine bingles to the game.

Here are the individual batting figures of the players:

ELEGANT MODERN HOME—In Decatur. This place consists of a modern 2-story house, furnace heated, with two bath rooms and all conveniences. The location is practically the best in Decatur, and the lot is about as pretty as you could make it, and is nearly an acre, fronting two streets. It would be impossible for you to find such a place as this in the city, as it has beautiful shade, elegant fruit, etc. You could not duplicate this place under $15,000 or $16,000, and yet for certain reasons I am authorized to offer it for $12,500. I haven't told you anything about this place, but I am crazy for you to see it, and if you want something in the way of a home that will surely please you, and you have the price, I know what the result will be if you look at this place.

DECATUR House and Three Acres—This property is within a block of car line and has on it a good 5-room house, fronts a fine street, and is on a corner, has branch running through it; barn on the lot. This is the hardest kind of property to find, and is a bargain at $3,500.

CHAS. P. GLOVER REALTY CO.
2½ WALTON STREET.

Polite at All Costs.

Alfred H. Lewis was somewhat surprised on going into a restaurant one evening recently to be almost overwhelmed by the attentions of a man whom he scarcely knew, but who insisted on introducing him as the greatest writer of the age to several others, and on his sitting down to table with them.

The riddle read itself a few moments later, when the effusive person handed across the table to the greatest writer of the age a card, on which he head written: "Dear old man, can you let me have $10?"

Not to be outdone in friendliness of diction, Lewis wrote on the other side of the card, "Dear old man, I can't," and handed it back.

AKERMAN IS SENT HIS COMMISSION

Officially Named District Attorney of Southern District by President Taft.

Macon, Ga., March 25.—(Special.)—Alexander Akerman is now officially United States district attorney for the southern district of Georgia, his commission from President Taft having arrived today. Mr. Akerman was not here to receive it, however, being in New Orleans on business before the United States court of appeals.

He was notified of the fact by telegram and at once sent to President Taft his recommendation for the office of assistant district attorney. He refuses to divulge the name of his appointee until approved by the president, but it is generally thought that Arthur Codington will be given the appointment.

BLACK WOLF KILLED BY BREMEN FARMER

Bremen, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—A few nights ago, an animal of ferocious disposition appeared southeast of this place, attacking a dog belonging to Joe Wheeler. Later it appeared at the farm of H. J. Reaves, who thought it to be a bear.

The animal appeared the same night in the yard of "Dock" Gunnells, where it killed a dog and made its escape, but in a short time it returned and attacked another of the dogs. Mr. Gunnell came out with his gun and shot the intruder. Thinking it was dead, he started to where it lay, when it arose and made a savage attack on him. A fierce encounter ensued in which the beast was finally killed. It proved to be black wolf which weighed about fifty pounds. Mr. Gunnell has its feet which is covered with long shaggy hair. The supposition is that the wolf was driven from its lair on the Chattahoochee river by the recent high waters.

ENGLAND HOPES FOR STRIKE'S END

Probable That the Conference Today Will Prove Successful.

London, March 24.—A hopeful feeling prevails that the conference tomorrow between the coal owners and miners will prove successful and end the strike which is affecting millions of the people of the United Kingdom. Several miners' leaders addressing meetings today spoke more encouragingly than for a long time. At Gateshead, Joseph English, president of the Northumberland miners, said he believed some understanding would be arrived at between the government and owners regarding the minimum wage.

Albert Stanley, M. P. for Staffordshire, secretary of the Midland Miners' Federation, and a number of the joint conciliation board of coal owners and miners, speaking at Stoke, thought that the end of the struggle was near. James Haslam, M. P., agent of the Derbyshire Miners' Association, in an interview, also spoke hopefully, but said that it would be imperative to have a ballot of the men on any agreement and that the miners could hardly resume work under a week.

SECOND BOMB FOR ROSALSKY

Another Attempt on Life of Judge Who Sentenced Schiff's Valet.

New York, March 24.—Although it has become known that the police are in possession of a second bomb mailed to Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, of the court of general sessions, the trial judge in the Brandt case, detectives would not disclose today on what clews they are working to solve the two mysterious attempts upon the life of the jurist.

The new bomb, detected in the mails and kept intact, coupled with threatening letters sent to Delancey Nicoll, attorney for Mortimer L. Schiff in the case of Folke E. Brandt, Mr. Schiff's former valet, are believed to have encouraged the police to renewed efforts in running down the sender.

DR. FLINN BEGINS SERIES OF MEETINGS

The first of a series of fine Sunday evening sermons along evangelical lines was delivered by Rev. Richard Orme Flinn at the North Avenue Presbyterian church last night.

The theme selected by Dr. Flinn was "Thou Art Not Able," which was the admonition of Saul to young David, when the latter declared his ability to slay the Philistine giant, Goliah. He likened the slaying of the giant by a mere lad, as David was, to what power Christian people might manifest in destroying the many forms of present-day evils, if they would but wage the battle in God's name and with the courage born of a knowledge of His strength. Likewise, he informed his hearers not to heed the words as delivered by Saul, implying lack of faith or courage, but to accept the promises of God, confess Jesus and join the Christian host in the battle against sin and evil.

At the conclusion of the services a number accepted the invitation to stand and make known their desire to accept Christ as their Savior.

The evangelical committee of the church is adopting various means of bringing men and boys under the influence of the Gospel, and many additions to the church as a result of these Sunday evening services are prayerfully hoped for.

No Date for Toledo.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 24.—A telegram was received tonight from the managers of the Toledo baseball team of the American Association asking to be allowed to come to Chattanooga to complete their spring training. The team is now in Lexington, Ky., where they are snowbound. They will not be given the privilege of training in Chattanooga, as there are no open dates for them. The team trained here last year.

ROME BASEBALL SQUAD DUE TO REPORT TODAY

Rome, Ga., March 24.—(Special.)—Eighteen members of the Rome baseball squad are due to report at the baseball headquarters Monday afternoon, and although some of them will be late in coming, they will be on hand for the first workout, just one week prior to the first exhibition game with Chattanooga, April 1 and 2. Manager Matthews has corralled a promising bunch from which to select his team, but is not relying on them solely. If they make good they will be taken, otherwise others will be secured who can. Efforts are being made to arrange games with Rochester during the week preceding the opening of the Southeastern league season, and if the games with Atlanta and Chattanooga are financially successful this will probably be done.

Three Home Runs Made.

New Orleans, March 24.—Home runs by Jackson and Butcher, of the Cleveland Americans, and Spencer, of the New Orleans' club, featured the game here this afternoon, Cleveland winning by a 6 to 4 score. The visitors batted in their runs with ten hits, and the New Orleans batters getting eight hits, Gregg, Knapp and Blanding were on the mound for the visitors, opposed by Martina and Maples.

Dooin's Men Return.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 24.—The Philadelphia National League squad reached home tonight from their training trip at Hot Springs, Ark. Pitcher Chalmers, who stopped off in Ohio to consult a specialist regarding his sore arm, will rejoin the squad here tomorrow, as will Paskert, Moore, Moran and Luderus, who stopped at their home towns on the way east.

Swept by Typhoon.

Perth, Western Australia, March 24.—A disastrous typhoon has occurred on the northwest coast of western Australia. It continued from Wednesday until Friday and extended somewhat inland. Many vessels were dashed to pieces on the rocks; numerous buildings have been wrecked and it is believed a large number of lives lost. The total extent of the damage is not known as telegraph communication is badly interrupted.

New York state will send to the republican national convention will be elected Tuesday at statewide primaries, the first held under the new law. The results will be regarded with interest throughout the state, but the line drawn by the vote in New York city will be practically the only index as to popular preferences toward the candidacies of President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt.

With two exceptions the up-state

With two exceptions the up-state

elections will be without opposition to the regular organization candidates, but in the metropolis an interesting fight is promised. In each of the thirteen congressional districts of the city proper, the Roosevelt forces have candidates in the field. Organization leaders, however, express confidence that their own candidates will win by generally heavy pluralities.

In the Utica district, where Theodore Robinson, Colonel Roosevelt's nephew, is running, and in the twenty-sixth district, where Lawrence Abbott, of The Outlook, has been nominated as one of the candidates, there will also be interesting contests.

The democrats also hold their primaries Tuesday, but they will only elect delegates to their state convention, as they have chosen, under the privilege of the law, to allow the state gathering to select the delegates to the Baltimore convention.

A large number of party committeemen are also to be elected by both parties, the long list of names leading to monstrosities in ballots. In one district in this city the ballot is fourteen feet long and in all districts they are of cumbersome dimensions.

BOTH TAFT AND ROOSEVELT CLAIM INDIANA DELEGATION

Washington, March 24.—Conflicting claims of the results of the republican primaries in Indiana on Saturday are made by the Taft national bureau and the Roosevelt executive committee here.

Director McKinley, of the Taft bureau, issued this statement:

"The latest advices from Indiana indicate beyond a doubt that the Taft delegates control the state convention by a majority of at least 250 and will send four delegates at large instructed for President Taft on Tuesday, March 26. It is settled beyond any question that Taft will have twenty-two out of the thirty in the state. The first and seventh districts have already sent instructed delegates and it is certain that Taft delegates will be sent from the second, third, fourth, fifth, tenth and thirteenth districts.

"The eleventh district, with its two delegates, is conceded to Roosevelt. The sixth, eighth and twelfth districts are so close that it is doubtful if the result is known until the conventions are held. The probabilities are that the Taft people will get two out of these three. The third fourth, fifth and eleventh districts will hold their conventions on Monday, March 25. The second, sixth, ninth and tenth districts will hold their conventions on March 28, the thirteenth district on April 3, and the twelfth district on April 27."

Senator Joseph M. Dixon, chairman of the Roosevelt executive committee, tonight gave out a statement regarding the Indiana primaries, saying in part:

"We have carried eight congressional districts out of thirteen for Colonel Roosevelt, and insured the control of the state convention, which will elect four more Roosevelt delegates to the national convention at Chicago."

DR. HOLDERBY PLEADS FOR THE WORKING GIRL

Dr. A. R. Holderby spoke in behalf of the working girls of Atlanta, Sunday morning at Moore Memorial church, selecting as his subject, "The Girl Behind the Counter."

"The Bible has placed a high estimate upon woman," he said. "Solomon, in speaking of the virtuous woman, declares that 'her price is above rubies.' Virtue belongs to woman by nature.

"She is naturally more religious than man. Her sensibilities are more refined. She is made of finer stuff. Modesty is her crowning attribute. She naturally shrinks from the vulgar and obscene and will at the risk of her life seek to defend her person and her honor.

"The woman of today finds herself under a new and unfavorable environments. With her, conditions have changed. Woman has been forced by the exigencies of the times into unsafe contact with the world, and to meet temptations that are appalling and often fatal to a life of virtue. In view of these facts, I am today appealing to the church in behalf of the working girl. The girl behind the counter—the girl in the shop, or factory, or wherever else she may be in contact with the cold and unsympathetic world, is in great danger.

"Hundreds of young women and girls flock to this city every year in search of employment, who are practically adrift, with no home save that of some cheap, dirty boarding house in which many are ruined for time and eternity. Many of these houses are places of infamy and vice. It is for this class that the church should make provision and throw around them its arms of love and sympathy.

"In this connection, I wish to say that it is a shame that the churches of Atlanta have not provided a large and well equipped home for the work of the Young Women's Christian Association. The great work which such an institution could accomplish for the working girls of the city has been handicapped for the lack of money and proper facilities. We should help the working girls of the city.

Tommy—His father ran to meet him and hurt himself.

"ITALY TO CONTROL TRIPOLI," SAYS LIEUT. LUIGI FURLANI

That there will be less immigration from Italy to America after the Italian army has been successful against the Turks and occupies Tripoli, is the opinion of Lieutenant Luigi Furlani, an Italian army officer, who is a visitor in Atlanta and who yesterday afternoon discussed many interesting topics with a party of well-known Atlanta men at the Capital City Club.

Lieutenant Furlani is a personal friend of Charles J. Haden of many years standing. He has been in America for several months studying commercial and military problems in this country, and while in Atlanta received a cablegram ordering him to rejoin his regiment in Rome. He leaves Atlanta this afternoon at 1 oclock, and will sail from New York Thursday. He expects his command to take the field in Tripoli at an early date. Lieutenant Furlani's rank and the name of his command in Italian is, "Cenente nel Granatieri di Sardegna (1st)."

Since coming to America he has made a close study of the battles of the civil war. He is familiar with this part of American history quite as much as the average American soldier, as it is enclosed in the course of study at the Italian war college. He came to Atlanta to visit his friend, Mr. Haden, and also to study the different battle grounds in this immediate vicinity which were made famous by General Sherman and other union and confederate generals.

Sunday afternoon the Italian officer was entertained informally at the Capital City Club by Mr. Haden.

Farming in Tripoli.

Tripoli has an area about four times that of Italy and for the most part is a fine farming country. About one-fourth of the country, that portion along the coast, is exceedingly fertile. About two-thirds of the remainder is adaptable to dry farming similar to certain portions of Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and other semi-arid western states of America.

It is Lieutenant Furlani's belief that Tripoli will eventually be under the entire control of Italy, and that the class of immigrants now coming to America will then turn towards that country.

In speaking of the causes for this war the Italian officer says that they have never been clearly stated in America, and that many here have the wrong impression of the conflict, especially since the wild stories have been circulated about the extreme cruelness of the Italian soldiers.

"The Turks have never treated Italy fairly in many matters, they have repeatedly failed to observe treaties and, worse than all, they have cruelly mistreated Italians who live or travel through their provinces. These conditions have been as much the cause for the war as the immediate troubles which brought it about.

Laughs at Pictures.

The lieutenant laughed long when questioned about recent moving pictures which have been shown in this and other cities of America representing scenes of the war in which extreme cruelties were inflicted by the Italian soldiers.

"They are the very worst fakes," he said, "all made at Coney Island. No one who is familiar with the soldiers or people of either nation would believe in them for a moment. They are all made in Coney Island by people who never saw Italy, Turkey or Tripoli, who have never fought at all and who know nothing of the customs of their countries.

"They really do Italy a wrong," he added seriously, "for many persons see them and believe that they are real. There is nothing we could do but protest, and what good would even that do?"

Will Trace Family.

W. G. Cooper questioned the Italian officer in regard to the family name Anthony, which is spelled Antonio in Italian. Mark Anthony, an Italian, settled in Virginia early in the seventeenth century, and many prominent families in Georgia, South Carolina and other southern states are his direct heirs. He was from Genoa, and Lieutenant Furlani said when he reached that city that he would inquire about the family and write him.

CITY CANDIDATES' HATS IN THE RING

Clelland, Steve R. Johnston, Dr. George Brown and Henry B. Baylor. It is believed by their friends that others who will enter the mayoralty race are Mayor Courtland S. Winn, James G. Woodward, Aldine Chambers and John S. Candler. Others who are spoken about in this connection are E. E. Pomeroy, F. A. Quillian, James L. Key, Carlos H. Mason and Judge George Hillyer. A movement was started a short while ago with a petition to get John W. Grant to enter the race for mayor, but so far the petition has not been presented to Mr. Grant.

Aldermen and Councilmen.

For aldermen, there will be elections held from the first ward to succeed A. J. Johnson; from the fifth ward to succeed J. W. Maddox, and from the tenth ward to succeed I. N. Ragsdale. Mr. Johnson cannot succeed himself, as he served a term in council preceding his election for alderman. Messrs. Maddox and Ragsdale will probably be candidates to succeed themselves.

For council, S. A. Wardlaw retires from the first ward, and he will probably be a candidate to succeed himself; Harvey Hatcher retires in the second ward, and he will probably be a candidate. Carl N. Guess goes out in the third ward, and may run again; Dr. C. J. Vaughan's term expires in the fourth ward, and he cannot succeed himself, as he is now serving the second term; in the fifth ward, J. D. Sisson will probably be a candidate to succeed himself; Councilman Boynton is serving a short term in the sixth ward, and it is believed that he will again be a candidate; J. H. Andrews will probably wish to succeed himself in the seventh ward; in the eighth ward, W. G. Humphries will retire, and his friends predict that he will announce as a candidate this year; Aldine Chambers is serving his second term in the ninth ward, and cannot run again; in the tenth ward, D. J. Baker is serving a second term, and is not eligible for re-election.

City Hall Officials.

City hall officials or ministerial officers, as they are known, who are voted for by the people, will have to be elected this year. The incumbents will all announce for re-election, and so far they have no opposition. They are:

James L. Mayson, city attorney; Ed R. Hays, building inspector; Walter Taylor, city clerk; J. H. Goldsmith, comptroller; city marshal, J. M. Fuller; tax collector, E. E. Williams; treasurer, Thomas J. Peeples; chief of construction, R. M. Clayton.

There will be no elections this year for a recorder, as Judge Broyles' term does not expire until July, 1915; or for general manager of the waterworks, as Zode Smith's term does not expire until February, 1914.

HUSBAND AND WIFE GO SAILING AWAY ON DOOR

Newton, Miss., March 24.—When a destructive tornado passed near here last night J. B. Trussell, a storekeeper, and his wife, tried to keep the store door closed by swinging on to the knob and propping themselves against it. The terrific wind wrecked the building and Mr. and Mrs. Trussell went sailing on the door several hundred feet away. Mrs. Trussell landed in a ditch and was slightly injured.

GOLDEN RULES IN CLEANING UP

Rev. H. H. Proctor preached at the First Congregational church, colored, last night on "The Negro's Part in the Campaign to Clean Up Atlanta." He chose for his text, John xxii, 1-2.

"We negroes form one-third of the population of Atlanta and do two-thirds of the manual labor of the city," he said. "We do most of the sweeping, cooking, washing, cleaning and hold in our hands the health of the city. I trust we appreciate this responsibility and will measure up to the opportunity.

"Permit me to suggest the following golden rules of sanitation for the race:

"1. Use water internally, externally and eternally, and clean up your premises, your bodies and your hearts.

"2. Clean up your yard; for it is better to use a rake in your back-yard than a pick in your graveyard.

"3. Clean up your clothes; for it is better to wear a clean shirt than a clean shroud.

"4. Clean up your bodies; for it is inconsistent for a man to sing, 'Wash Me in the Blood of the Lamb' when he needs just plain soap and water.

"5. Clean up your hearts; for sin is filth and cleanliness is godliness."

THREE OUTLAWS HARD PRESSED

the train window and waved to each group, not a fed of whom were friends or relatives, for Carroll county's population is composed largely of Allens or their kinsfolk.

Plaintive Note in Voice.

There was a plaintive note in the boy's voice, however, when Henry Allen, a cousin, attired in the blue uniform of an officer of the peace, stepped aboard the train at Bylisbey. They shook hands and eyed each other in silence for a moment.

"I'm sorry to see you in a bad scrape like this," sighed Allen.

"Well, sir, I'm sorry to be in it, but I jest couldn't help it," was the meek reply.

Edwards reiterated his protest of innocence.

"I had a hard time of it," he said, "for two weeks I had been in bed with pneumonia, and they all dragged me out to come to court to be a witness in Uncle Floyd's trial. I wish now I had not gone. The shooting began all of a sudden and the room was filled with smoke in a second, bullets were flying from one side to the other like lightning. I got out as fast as I could. I ran away because I heard they would all shoot us on sight. I slept in barns and hid in the fodder, but I knew I was caught some days ago. They could have arrested me much easier."

Detective Thomas L. Felts and Albert H. Baldwin, whom the county has placed in charge of the search for the Allens, rode with Edwards to Roanoke. They confirmed his statement that capture could have been accomplished sooner, explaining that their purpose was to follow Edwards about in case he attempted to join the other outlaws.

His Manner is Guileless.

Edwards, whose manner is guileless and open, hardly seemed to realize the seriousness of his plight. He laughingly read one of the circulars giving descriptions of himself and companions. Last night in a moment of thoughtlessness he referred, the detectives say, to his revolver, declaring that he had fired some shots. Hitherto he had claimed not to be armed. Witnesses before the grand jury said that as he came out of the court house he gave his pistol to Floyd Allen so that the latter might continue his pistol duel with Clerk Dexter Goad on the court house green.

To Hillsville today came reports that the various posses are still on the watch in the mountains. Most of the Allen family, though, not involved in the tragedy, included among which is Jasper (Jack) Allen, were today placed under close surveillance. Offers of surrender, it was authoritatively said today, emanated from some Allen noncombatants. The detectives are positive that the outlaws have authorized no one to make propositions on their behalf because communication with the bandits in the mountains has been blocked.

The formal arraignment of the prisoners was definitely set today for April 15 at Hillsville. A change of venue to Wytheville, Wythe county, is likely.

"The Herfords," the play in which Viola Allen will appear at the Grand tonight and tomorrow night, tells how Ann, a sculptor's wife, beat her husband at his own game, and then, after seeing her family nearly smashed, gave up her art and sat down to piece her family together again. It's all about the conflict of careers and cradles, winning commissions v. warming slipper, a woman's true mission and that sort of thing, and offers a beautiful opportunity for debate and disputation.

"Polly of the Circus."

(At the Atlanta.)

Tonight the Atlanta will open with "Polly of the Circus," the charming and highly interesting play of circus life, in which Ida St. Leon is the star. The engagement is for two nights with a special children's matinee tomorrow. Ida St. Leon was the most admired and most petted star seen in Atlanta last year and won a following which was great and enthusiastic. "Polly of the Circus" is a real play, which is tender and humorous, and which has a deep hold upon the American public. No player ever made the part of Polly quite so realistic and true as little Ida St. Leon and it is an absolute treat to see her. She is supported by a company of capable players, all of whom make a performance far above the average. The matinee tomorrow will be in the nature of a bargain performance, children being given an especially enticing rate of admission.

"A Lucky Hoodoo."

(At the Lyric.)

The attraction at the Lyric theater tonight, is the first appearance in Atlanta of Billy B. Van and the Beaumont sisters, in a new musical comedy entitled "A Lucky Hoodoo." It concerns the adventures of the property man in a vaudeville theater and the fortune-telling of a "Madam Holdenlights," whom Van, later, as a genial office boy, impersonates. Mr. Van brings a strong company to Atlanta, an attractively gowned and winsome beauty chorus and new stage settings and costume effects.

Some of the song "hits" are "Just a Little Quaker Girl," "Golden Dreams," "I Never Could Love Another Girl" and "Oh, You Props," and the democratic "Wan Cry," "You Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dawg Aroun'."

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

The big event of the season at the busy Forsyth will be the appearance twice daily this week of Paul Armstrong's celebrated vaudeville play, "A Romance of the Underworld." This act has been prominently announced since last August, because it is one of the greatest of the great star features of present-day vaudeville. The act will cost the Forsyth more money than any other two acts that have ever been seen on the local vaudeville stage. The great feature will be supported by a quintet of selected acts, including the champion axemen of the world, the Australian woodchoppers, who will perform interesting feats of unusual interest. The six Brown brothers, entertaining musicians; Major and Roy, who do a duplicate of the Badini and Arthur comedy juggling act; Hoey and Moxar, a clever singing duo, and a pleasing comedienne make up the bill.

At the Bijou.

Four splendid acts comprise the Bijou's bill for the week, beginning this afternoon. At the head of the list will be Karrera, the famous impersonator, who has made an instantaneous hit wherever he has appeared. The musical part of the program will be taken care of by the Gallerina four, who will furnish popular and tuneful musical numbers. Al Hedrick and the Wright Sisters, two charming young girls, will have something new to offer in the singing, talking and dancing line, and Joe Kennedy, with his comical skating stunt, promises to keep the audience laughing.

On Tuesday, April 2nd, before the Courthouse door, we are going to have an
